Best Choice Scenario Cards

These cards range in difficulty. Choose scenarios that best match

STICKY SITUATIONS

Students often are not clear on what answers to difficult situations, and often have conflicting opinions. These cards are designed to help students think about the pros and cons of different choices and to help them make a decision. The cards are designed to be used in a variety of ways, including as a class activity, a group activity, or a self-reflection tool.

You are in the cafeteria and see someone who is your friend's friend. There is only one seat left. What do you do?

It is a windy day and you are walking. You see a bag on the ground. It is yours. What do you do?

You need to decide if you want to go to a friend's house. You are not sure if you want to go. What do you do?

Someone younger than you is in a car. What do you do?

Weighing My Choices

Students often are not clear on what answers to difficult situations, and often have conflicting opinions. These cards are designed to help students think about the pros and cons of different choices and to help them make a decision. The cards are designed to be used in a variety of ways, including as a class activity, a group activity, or a self-reflection tool.

Middle School Decision Making Activities:

Decision-making Skills for Middle School Students Sherrel Bergmann, Gerald J. Rudman, 1985-01-01 Early adolescence is a time when students require adult assistance to become accurate and effective decision makers and problem solvers Because of the fragmented nature of society the family structure and the schooling process schools need to establish a nonthreatening environment in which students can discuss the issues related to growing up A decision making course in the middle school can become that program Results of the first six years of the decision making course at Elm Place Middle School in Highland Park Illinois are described illustrating a definite positive response on the part of all students The logistics for designing and implementing such a program in the middle school are discussed Teaching strategies projects and activities are outlined Sample activities are appended along with sample communications to parents and students JD
