NIH Extramural Center Programs Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee for Assessment of NIH Centers of Excellence Programs, 2004-04-21 Grants for research centers located in universities medical centers and other nonprofit research institutions account for about 9 percent of the National Institutes of Health budget Centers are popular because they can bring visibility focus and increased resources to bear on specific diseases However congressional debate in 2001 over proposed legislation directing NIH to set up centers for muscular dystrophy research highlighted several areas of uncertainty about how to decide when centers are an appropriate research mechanism in specific cases The debate also highlighted a growing trend among patient advocacy groups to regard centers as a key element of every disease research program regardless of how much is known about the disease in question the availability of experienced researchers and other factors This book examines the criteria and procedures used in deciding whether to establish new specialized research centers It discusses the future role of centers in light of the growing trend of large scale research in biomedicine and it offers recommendations for improving the classification and tracking of center programs clarifying and improving the decision process and criteria for initiating center programs resolving the occasional disagreements over the appropriateness of centers and evaluating the performance of center programs more regularly and systematically National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1993 Federal Register, 1997 Evaluating Research Centers and Institutes for Success! William R. Tash, 2006 NIH Extramural Programs, 1983 Cooperative Research Centers and Technical Innovation Craig Boardman, Denis O. Gray, Drew Rivers, 2012-09-18 At a time when scientific and technical innovation now requires a multitude of heterogeneous inputs and expertise from the public and private sectors alike cooperative research centers CRCs have emerged as the predominant vehicle for cross sector collaboration In the U S alone there are thousands of CRCs on university campuses and agencies like the National Science Foundation National Institutes of Health Department of Defense and more recently the Department of Energy fund CRCs to address some of the nation's most formidable challenges with science and technology including cancer and other diseases terrorism surveillance and the detection of weapons of mass destruction and new energy technologies and smart energy grid development Industry oftentimes participates in CRCs for access to knowledge capacity development and to mitigate risk This volume includes research investigating CRCs from North America Europe Australia and Asia to explore the dynamics of CRCs including but not limited to resource allocation structure level of sponsorship organization and membership management and operations objectives and goals and in doing so identifies both differences and similarities across institutional and national contexts The volume sheds light on the role of CRCs in promoting innovation S T policy and economic development and on the practical aspects of successful CRC management Moreover the works included in the volume consider the implications for the various stakeholder groups firms universities researchers students policymakers invested in CRCs The NIH Record, 1994
