Human Rights and the United Nations Abigail B. Bakan, Yasmeen Abu-Laban, 2025-03-17 This book considers the complex and contradictory role of the United Nations when it comes to human rights around the world. It depicts the United Nations as a global arena in which state and non state actors continuously contest issues around human rights. This ongoing contestation simultaneously produces both advances and setbacks when it comes to the rights of stateless populations, women, Indigenous peoples, and racialized people, as well as rights related to health and the environment. Since the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights and throughout various subsequent expansions, conventions, and declarations, the United Nations has been central to the development and advancement of human rights as a primary stated goal of global governance. However, there are various inherent contradictory tensions and challenges embedded in the United Nations' promise for human rights. This timely collection investigates the United Nations' role as knowledge producer, its relation to non state actors, and the United Nations' role as a system for grouping sovereign states where there is uneven buy-in within non binding agreements and tensions between national sovereignty and human rights. At a time when the world faces existential challenges from climate change to pandemics which disproportionately impact the world's most vulnerable populations, this book addresses future challenges and possibilities for the United Nations' Human Rights and the United Nations' Paradox and Promise will be an important read for researchers and students across the fields of human rights, political science, international relations, and global development, as well as for United Nations and governmental policy analysts and advisors.

Anthropologies of Global Maternal and Reproductive Health Lauren J. Wallace, Margaret E. MacDonald, Katerini T. Storeng, 2022-01-11 This open access edited book brings together new research on the mechanisms by which maternal and reproductive health policies are formed and implemented in diverse locales around the world, from global policy spaces to sites of practice. The authors, both internationally respected anthropologists and new voices, demonstrate the value of ethnography and the utility of reproduction as a lens through which to generate rich insights into professionals and lay people's intimate encounters with policy. Authors look closely at core policy debates in the history of global maternal health across six different continents, including Women's use of misoprostol for abortion in Burkina Faso. The place of traditional birth attendants in global maternal health, Donor driven maternal health programs in Tanzania. Efforts to integrate qualitative evidence in WHO maternal and child health policy making. Anthropologies of Global Maternal and Reproductive Health will engage readers interested in critical conversations about global health policy today. The broad range of foci makes it a valuable resource for teaching in medical anthropology, anthropology of reproduction, and interdisciplinary global health programs. The book will also find readership amongst critical public health scholars, health policy and systems researchers, and global public health practitioners.

Climate change justice and human rights: An African perspective Ademola Oluborode Jegede, Oluwatoyin Adejonwo, 2023-01-16 Populations in Africa are vulnerable to both the direct and indirect adverse effects of climate change that are of human rights significance The urgency for states in Africa to implement climate interventions while they face developmental challenges however raises questions of justice or fairness between the developed and the developing states Consequently interrogating how the human rights paradigm may respond to negative implications of climate change and its fairness is important as states continue to engage with the climate change standard setting This edited volume critically interrogates human rights paradigm as an intervention to secure climate change justice for vulnerable populations analyses regional protection against human rights consequences of climate change and assesses emerging interventions based on domestic regulatory frameworks on climate change in selected states in Africa

UNFPA State of World Population 2009 Robert Engelman,2009 The whole world has been talking about carbon credits carbon trading and emissions targets But not enough has been said about the people whose activities contribute to those emissions or about those who will be most affected by climate change especially women How do population dynamics affect greenhouse gases and climate change Will urbanization and an ageing population help or hinder efforts to adapt to a warming world And could better reproductive health care and improved relations between women and men make a difference in the fight against climate change The linkages between population and climate change are in most cases complex and indirect But the nature of these linkages is becoming clear enough to arrive at the key recommendations of this report for mitigating climate change and aiding adaptation to it elicit a new level of engagement by Governments in the areas of population and development provide access to reproductive health and actively support gender equality

State of World Population 2002 United Nations Population Fund,2002 Fertility and population growth are highest in the world s poorest countries with the least developed countries estimated to triple their populations from 600 million in 1995 to 1.8 billion by 2050. Dealing with population and reproductive health concerns within the broad framework of the UN Millennium Goals is crucial to achieving sustainable development objectives. This report reviews some key issues involved in progress to tackle global poverty including the many dimensions of poverty, demographics and macroeconomics, gender inequality, health differentials and financing. HIV/AIDS and access to education. It outlines a development framework for action including better programme targeting to ensure benefits reach the poor especially the most vulnerable, the extension of microcredit schemes and the need for better monitoring and data systems. Health and Population, Perspectives and Issues, 2013

Prevention Technologies: Call for Innovative Strategies to Address Critical Priorities and Gaps Bethany Young Holt, Z. Mike Chirenje, Nomita Chandhiok, Ariane Van Der Straten, Jim Turpin, Anke Hemmerling, 2024-05-31 The HIV, sexually transmitted infection, STI syndemics and the unmet need for modern contraceptive methods continue to pose significant health risks for women and other people worldwide. As awareness of the need to address these interlinked risks has increased, the need for new technologies that combine protection against unintended pregnancy, HIV and other STIs is a growing research priority. Multipurpose Prevention Technologies (MPTs) are products that simultaneously prevent HIV, other STIs and/or unintended pregnancy. They have the power to revolutionize women's health by providing prevention for multiple indications.

The content will include an overview of contraceptive practices among adolescents with specific articles on hormonal and nonhormonal methods including barrier contraceptives, emergency contraception and the IUD. One article will address contraceptive issues for teens in the developing world. The issue will also include a review of the noncontraceptive benefits of hormonal methods and potential interactions with other medications including herbal products. Specific concerns for teens with chronic illnesses and disabilities will be discussed along with new contraceptive methods under development.

The Theories of Decentralization and Local Government Kwame Badu Antwi-Boasiako, Peter Csanyi, 2014. Theories of Decentralization and Local Government brings fresh perspective to the debate and comparative analysis of vertical division of power i.e. processes of decentralization and relations between central and local self governments. The multiple author book is not just one of many similar around the globe as it encompasses contributions from many different academics from not only different countries but also different continents and even more importantly very different political traditions and cultures. This way the book deepens and strengthens knowledge of the role of local governments in the contemporary world and brings new value to discussions on the relationship between decentralization and development. Contributors include Ahmed Mustafa Elhussein, Mansour Hong Pang, Abdulfattah Yaghi, Jose Neftali Recinos, Gariela Miranda Recinos, Lee Payne, Heather Wyatt, Nichol Ed Gibson, James Newman, Kwame Asamoah, Minerva Cruz and Alexandra Tsvetkova.
