Steuber,2005 The purpose of this study was to create a comprehensive model integrating adult attachment style conflict style and relationship satisfaction The research sought to determine if adult attachment acted as a predictor of conflict style and if attachment style mediated by conflict style influenced relationship satisfaction Three hundred and twenty one undergraduate students in romantic relationships n 321 completed questionnaires measuring attachment style relational conflict style and relationship satisfaction Results indicated that highly avoidant individuals are more likely to engage in hostile relational conflict with their partners and feel significantly less satisfaction from their adult romantic relationships than their non avoidant counterparts Data also suggested that avoidance and hostility may be more influential on relationship satisfaction levels than anxiety and validation The model in the current study compliments romantic conflict research by offering a predictor for conflict styles in dating relationships and illustrating the influence of both attachment style and conflict style on romantic relationship satisfaction

The Relationship Between Adult Attachment Style and Styles of Conflict Resolution in Romantic Relationships Iris Wendi Fischer,1993 Zero to Three ,2002 The Relationship of Adult Attachment Style and Interactive Conflict Styles to Marital Satisfaction Anne Katherine Crowley,2010 This study examined the association between individual attachment and interactive conflict styles and the overall influence on marital satisfaction in 207 married individuals The application of attachment theory to this study of adult romantic relationships was established via factor analysis and yielded two dimensions self anxiety and other avoidance Accommodation and demand withdraw were the two forms of conflict interaction studied which respectively are constructive and destructive styles of engagement that impact marital satisfaction Individuals completed self report measures of attachment accommodation demand withdraw and global marital satisfaction The current study yielded statistically significant results and supported all of the research hypotheses There were negative relationships found between the attachment dimensions of anxiety and avoidance and total accommodation while positive relationships were determined between both attachment dimensions and demand withdraw behaviors In relationship to marital satisfaction an individual s total accommodation was positively related while demand withdraw behaviors were inversely associated There were also inverse relationships found between both the attachment dimensions and marital satisfaction These findings suggest that the data are consistent with previous research on attachment accommodation demand withdraw behavior and marital satisfaction In addition to supporting prior findings this study also had several unique contributions A statistically significant relationship was found between the constructive and destructive conflict styles which suggested total accommodation was associated with lower levels of demand withdraw In addition a path model for the variables of attachment accommodation demand withdraw and marital satisfaction was developed This display of variables is especially useful in showing the bidirectionality of constructive and destructive behaviors in marriage Research implications for these findings are presented and suggestions for future research are discussed Magazines for Libraries William Armstrong Katz,2003 Adult Attachment Judith A.
