Koch's and Microbiology

1890 Robert Koch, a German physician and microbiologist, was the first to prove that bacteria cause disease. He is known as the "father of bacteriology".

1890 Koch's Postulates are a set of four criteria that must be met to prove that a specific microorganism causes a specific disease. They are: 1. The microorganism must be found in all cases of the disease. 2. The microorganism must be isolated from the diseased host. 3. The microorganism must be grown in pure culture. 4. The microorganism must be shown to cause the disease in a healthy host.
