Modernism's Queer Parents Anchit Sathi, 2025-12-02 This volume offers the first critical examination of how societal pressures compelling individuals towards parenthood are experienced processed and enacted by queer characters in selected works by Thomas Mann Virginia Woolf and Marcel Proust authors now widely regarded as queer despite not having claimed such an identity in their own time The selected texts include Mann's Chaotic World and Childhood Sorrow and Death in Venice Woolf's Mrs Dalloway and Orlando and key sections from Proust's In Search of Lost Time By engaging these texts in a pairwise dialogue this book argues that Mann Woolf and Proust employ a shared repertoire of motifs and narrative strategies to depict queer characters' struggles with the institution of parenthood However it contends that each author articulates a distinct and nuanced approach to this theme shaped in part by the specific cultural contexts in which they wrote To substantiate this argument the monograph draws on insights from queer theory metaphor theory and the social sciences predominantly from late twentieth and early twenty-first century scholarship thereby reinforcing its commitment to linking literary modernism to contemporary lived realities At the same time the analysis situates these works within the broader socio-historical framework of the early twentieth century which is to say the modernist period with which these authors are conventionally associated

Modern Mothers in the Heartland Lynne Curry, 1999 In the early twentieth century ambitious social welfare campaigns linked the improvement of health to the broader aim of modernizing American life Lowered mortality rates especially among infants and young children became for reformers a barometer by which to measure society's overall progress To date most analyses of Progressive Era child welfare movements have concentrated on urban areas in the Northeast and the national leadership role played by the Children's Bureau Modern Mothers in the Heartland in contrast shifts the focus to the Midwest Illinois provides an interesting case study because its rates of infant and maternal mortality tended to be higher than those of other midwestern states and Chicago's rates were consistently higher than those of other major industrial centers Drawing on local and state sources to reconstruct the nature of a maternal and child health work Lynne Curry highlights the interactive character of health reform policy makers clients of community health services practitioners and the volunteers who worked with them negotiated the final outcomes of the campaign's stated aims Situating maternal and child health reform in its historical and regional contexts this study uses information about Illinois's distinctive social economic and political history even its geography to enhance the analytical picture

Gender, Health, and History in Modern East Asia Angela Ki Che Leung, Izumi Nakayama, 2017-11-22 This groundbreaking volume captures and analyzes the exhilarating and at times disorienting experience when scientists government officials educators and the general public in East Asia tried to come to terms with the introduction of Western biological and medical sciences to the region The nexus of gender and health is a compelling theme for this is an area in which private lives and personal characteristics encounter the interventions of public policies The nine empirically based studies by scholars of history of medicine sociology anthropology and STS science technology and society spanning Japan Korea China Taiwan and Hong Kong from the 1870s to the present demonstrate just how tightly concerns with gender and health have been woven into the enterprise of modernization and nation building throughout the long twentieth century The concepts of gender and health have become so commonly used that one might overlook that they are actually complicated notions with vexed histories even in their native contexts Transposing such terminologies into another historical or geographical dimension is fraught with problems and what makes the East Asian cases in this volume particularly illuminating is that they present concepts of gender and health in motion The studies show how individuals and societies made sense of modern scientific discourses on diseases body sex and reproduction redefining existing terms in the process and adopting novel ideas to face new challenges and demands Whether reviewing the comparative national histories of birth control debating early cases of transsexual surgery or highlighting the resurgence of traditional Asian medical commodities this volume provides accessible and productive studies on these intriguing topics in Asia Scholars of modern East Asia and indeed anyone concerned with the analysis of gender and health in light of intersecting postcolonial studies will find the book rewarding Rayna Rapp New York University A bold and important volume that explores the interweaving of gender body and modernity throughout East Asia With vivid articles on sexuality reproductive technologies and sexual identities the book opens multiple possibilities for how Asia as method can shine new light on persistent theoretical questions from biopower to biocitizenship Ruth Rogaski Vanderbilt University Gender Reconstructions Cindy L. Carlson, Robert L. Mazzola, Susan M. Bernardo, 2002 Timely and politically pertinent this collection of essays links the fields of women's studies and cultural studies examining women's desires and women as objects of desire Working in diverse disciplines and time periods the contributors address the common theme of perversion as a cultural often linguistic construct Analysing texts and images from medieval times to the twentieth century the volume affords the reader modernist and postmodernist perspectives on the connected issues of erotics pornography and perversion Gender and Modernity Ulrike Wöhr, Barbara Hamill Sato, 2000 New Books on Women, Gender and Feminism, 2013

Making Modern Mothers Heather Paxson, 2004-02-12 In Greece women speak of mothering as within the nature of a woman But this durable association of motherhood with femininity exists in tension with the highest incidence of abortion and one of the lowest fertility rates in Europe In this setting how do women think of themselves as proper individuals mothers and Greek citizens In this anthropological study of reproductive politics and ethics in Athens Greece Heather Paxson tracks the effects of increasing consumerism and imported biomedical family planning methods showing how women's nature is being transformed to meet crosscutting claims of the contemporary world Locating profound ambivalence in people's ethical evaluations of gender and fertility control Paxson offers a far reaching analysis of conflicting assumptions about what it takes to be a good mother and a good woman in modern Greece where assertions of cultural tradition unfold against a backdrop of European Union integration economic struggle and national demographic anxiety over a falling birth rate

New Books on Women and Feminism ,2005 What Gender is Motherhood? Oyèrónké Oyěwùmí,2016-04-29 In this book Oy w m extends her path breaking thesis that in Yor b society construction of gender is a colonial development since the culture exhibited no gender divisions in its original form Taking seriously indigenous modes and categories of knowledge she applies her finding of a non gendered ontology to the social institutions of If motherhood marriage family and naming practices Oy w m insists that contemporary assertions of male dominance must be understood in part as the work of local intellectuals who took marching orders from Euro American mentors and colleagues In exposing the depth of the coloniality of power Oy w m challenges us to look at the worlds we inhabit anew Bibliographic Index ,2001 Between "modern Women" and "woman-mothers" Gina Louise Hunter de Bessa,2004 Power, Reproduction And, Gender Wendy Harcourt,1997 Drawing on material from a wide variety of societies all immersed in deep change the contributors investigate when and why people change their reproductive and sexual behaviour and how knowledge is transferred within and between the generations Psychological Gender and Modernity Harriet Bjerrum Nielsen,Monica Rudberg,1994 The aim of this book is to describe the psychological story of gender in contemporary civilization How is gender identity constructed through our socialization at different stages And what happens to gender identity in a society where traditional sex roles seem to evaporate When the question of gender in modern society is debated one often gets the impression of no change at all on the one hand or total disintegration on the other The authors examine the often confusing story of gender and change from different perspectives developmental psychology historical modernity and youth culture A tentative conclusion is that the set of problems connected with femininity today seems to be different for young girls Femininity and individuality seem no longer to be a contradiction in terms as they often were in older generations On the contrary to explore and test one s gender becomes an aspect of exploring one s individuality and the right to be one s gender becomes part of the more encompassing modern right to be a unique individual This work will interest developmental and educational psychologists as well as students of youth culture feminist studies and sociology
