Direct Investment Murali Guruswamy,2014-03-27 Master s Thesis from the year 2014 in the subject Business economics Offline Marketing and Online Marketing grade Merit University of Lincoln PG Business School course Master s in Business Administration language English abstract The research report is based on studying foreign direct investments and global FDI flows The primary part of the study focuses on understanding Foreign Direct Investment and its global flows using reports and handouts issued by economic organizations and departments The secondary part of the research focuses on studying FDI flows between developed and developing economies The study attempts to determine the key drivers for the FDI and determinants of FDI using traditional FDI models and frameworks presented by research scholars and authors Laterally the research focuses on exploring the relationship between the determinants of FDI and advantages offered by host developing economies The final part of the study focuses on analyzing the FDI trends in India and its likely impact on the retail trade and country s economy The primary objectives of the study was to study the historical and present trends in FDI flows in India and contrast the outcomes with China and United Kingdom using Dunning's OLI paradigm and Differential rates of return. Finally, the study concludes by analyzing the outputs gathered through primary data collection methods: surveys, interviews, and historical analysis, presenting the readers about the FDI flows between developed and developing economies. In the theoretical part of the research, the study attempts to explore the relationship between foreign direct investments and the motives for the firms to indulge in foreign direct investments. The literature part also focused on defining recent trends in FDI inflows in India and its likely impact on the retail market. Different theories and models were contrasted to gain conceptual knowledge about the area of interest of the study. In the analysis and findings part, the findings that were obtained using primary and secondary data were presented with the brief interpretation in a graphical format to communicate the message in a quantifiable manner. In addition, when findings of the study are related with literature review, the study emphasizes on the fact that foreign direct investment is an important source of capital for development of nation's economy. In addition, there is an increased flow of FDI towards developing countries rather than developed countries because the advantageous factors offered by the developing nations.

The Direct Marketing Market Place, 1983 Edward L. Stern, 1983 Direct Marketing, 1985 Strategic Marketing Decisions in Global Markets Isobel Doole, Robin Lowe, 2005 This groundbreaking text analyses the decisions within the overall planning process of strategy development within a global context. The text identifies the issues faced at each stage of the strategic process and focuses on how more effective decisions can be made with the marketing environment. Strategic Marketing Decisions in global markets meets the needs of marketing students and practitioners in an up-to-date and innovative manner. It recognises the increasing time pressures of both students and managers and so strives to maintain the readability and clarity through a straightforward and logical structure that will enable them to apply their learning to the tasks ahead. International Marketing Strategy Isobel Doole, Robin Lowe, 2004 This text looks at context, techniques and strategies involved in successful international marketing. It sets out to provide a good balance of the theory and implementation behind international marketing. The Direct Marketing Market Place, 1990 Market, 1995 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1996 International Marketing Philip R. Cateora, John L. Graham, Edward R. Bruning, 2005-10 Cateora and Graham's International Marketing is far and away the best selling text in the field with a pioneering approach to making the material accessible and relevant that has become the standard by which other books are judged. Providing a well-rounded perspective of international markets that encompasses history, geography, language and religion as well as economics, Cateora helps students to see the cultural and environmental uniqueness of any nation or region. The 13th edition reflects all the important events and innovations to affect global business within recent years while including several new and updated technological learning tools.
