Rethinking Evolution in the Museum Monique Scott,2007-11-19 Rethinking Evolution in the Museum explores the ways diverse natural history museum audiences imagine their evolutionary heritage In particular the book considers how the meanings constructed by audiences of museum exhibitions are a product of dynamic interplay between museum iconography and powerful images museum visitors bring with them to the museum In doing so the book illustrates how the preconceived images held by museum audiences about anthropology Africa and the museum itself strongly impact the human origins exhibition experience Although museological theory has come increasingly to recognize that museum audiences make meaning in exhibitions or make their own complex interpretations of museum exhibitions few scholars have explicitly asked how Rethinking Evolution in the Museum however provides a rare window into visitor perceptions at four world class museums the Natural History Museum and Horniman Museum in London the National Museums of Kenya in Nairobi and the American Museum of Natural History in New York Through rigorous and novel mixed methods quantitative and qualitative covering nearly 500 museum visitors this innovative study shows that audiences of human origins exhibitions interpret evolution exhibitions through a profoundly complex convergence of personal political intellectual emotional and cultural interpretive strategies This book also reveals that natural history museum visitors often respond to museum exhibitions similarly because they use common cultural tools picked up from globalized popular media circulating outside of the museum One tool of particular interest is the notion that human evolution has proceeded linearly from a bestial African prehistory to a civilized European present Despite critical growths in anthropological science and museum displays the outdated Victorian progress motif lingers persistently in popular media and the popular imagination Rethinking Evolution in the Museum sheds light on our relationship with natural history museums and will be crucial to those people interested in understanding the connection between the visitor the museum and media culture outside of the museum context Annual Report of ... the Free Public Museums Liverpool Museum (Liverpool, England),1899 Snapshots of Museum Experience Elee Kirk,Will Buckingham,2018-06-20 Children are one of the major audiences for museums but their visits are often seen solely from the point of view of museum learning In Snapshots of Museum Experience Will Buckingham draws upon Elee Kirk

s research amongst child visitors to the Oxford University Museum of Natural History to take a different approach Using a method of photo elicitation with four and five year old child visitors to the museum the book investigates children s experience of the museum and in the process undermines many of our assumptions about the interests needs and demands of child museum visitors Drawing together the fields of museum studies and childhood studies the book considers children as active creators of the museum visit It investigates the way that children navigate and take control of the physical and social spaces of the museum finding their own idiosyncratic pathways through these spaces It also explores how elements of the museum light up becoming salient to the child visitor Finally it investigates how children make sense through intellectually and imaginatively engaging with these elements of the museum visit Snapshots of Museum Experience gives a unique insight into the sheer diversity of children s museum experiences and discusses how museums might cater more successfully to the needs of their child visitors As such it should be of great interest to academics researchers and students in the fields of museum studies visitor studies and childhood studies It should also be essential reading for museum educators and exhibition designers
