

THE CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE OF NORTHERN NIGERIA: THE FIRST FIVE YEARS

Five years have now passed since the Criminal Procedure Code of Northern Nigeria came into force and, having regard to the interest and controversy which it aroused, it may be that a review of its working during this initial period may be of interest, particularly to those who remember the article by Mr. Justin Price in the Modern Law Review of 1961, which gave rise to subsequent replies and correspondence.<sup>1</sup> It is satisfactory to be able to report that the fears expressed by Mr. Justin Price in his article and by others in a less public and controversial manner have proved to be without foundation. Without foundation, that is to say, unless these fears merely related to change itself, based upon a belief that the English criminal law and procedure and any other directly descended from it are sacrosanct.

For the sake of completeness it may not be out of place to commence this article by reminding readers of the reasons for the introduction of new legislation in 1960. Prior to September 30, 1960, the criminal law and procedure applicable in Northern Nigeria, except in a handful of High and magistrates' courts, was native law and custom, which included Moslem law, and this was applied in over 700 native courts. These courts consisted of alkali courts (in the predominantly Moslem areas), conciliar courts and non-Moslem courts consisting of a President sitting with assessors. These courts varied greatly in powers and jurisdiction (Grade A Moslem courts having even capital powers) and in efficiency and competence. They dealt with the vast majority of criminal work in the Region, and some, though not all, were subject to a right of appeal to the Regional High Court, the Federal Supreme Court (the final court of appeal within the Federation) and the Privy Council.

The position therefore prior to October 1, 1960, was that the law of criminal procedure in the High and magistrates' courts throughout the Federation was that established by the Criminal Procedure Ordinance<sup>2</sup> whilst criminal procedure in the native courts of Northern Nigeria was regulated by native law and custom which was generally unwritten. It was however felt at the time of independence (October 1, 1960) that there should be in existence in the
