The next step in HF technology, the Harris Falcon III RF-7800H-MP Wideband HF/VHF Tactical Radio System leverages breakthrough wideband data performance—and interoperability with fielded Falcon II HF radios—to deliver information superiority on today's battlefields. It provides continuous coverage from 1.5 to 60 MHz, 20 watts HF and 10 watts VHF on the power of a single battery, and bandwidths from 3 to 24 kHz—with data rates of up to 120 kbps.

No matter the deployment scenario, the RF-7800H-MP ensures the transmission and receipt of critical communications. With its Falcon II interoperability, it easily integrates into existing networks to deliver secure voice and data. It provides extended range, operating over degraded communication channels. And with ultra-robust 3G waveforms, it provides last-ditch voice and SMS messaging in channels where legacy waveforms don't work.

Incorporating enhanced anti-jamming measures and embedded Citadel® and AES encryption, all RF-7800H-MP transmissions are completely secure and reliable. The radio also features high-performance automatic link establishment and data link protocols to provide fast, reliable linking and error-free data transfer—even under the most challenging channel conditions.

In addition to its array of embedded capabilities—which also include an internal GPS receiver and telephony—the RF-7800H-MP features a Software-Defined Radio (SDR) architecture, which allows it to host future capabilities. Combined with its incredible processing power, this ensures it will continue to be state-of-the-art well into the future.

Providing all of these features in a form factor that's more compact and 20% lighter than previous HF manpacks, the RF-7800H-MP enables today's warfighter to take on tomorrow's missions.
