CONFLICT CHARACTER VS. NATURE	EXAMPLE AND PAGES	CHANGE in Elie
	Pages 92-98 (Chapters 6 and 7) - The prisoners were eating snow off other prisoners' backs. Also, all the prisoners had to try to keep warm on the open cattle cars. Someone's face was covered with frost and snow. Him and his father were close together, but he didn't know if he was alive. Others prisoners were about to throw his father out, because he looked dead, but Elie slapped him and his father reacted. There was an old man who had bread, and his son went on top of him, and the father said that he was his father, and the old man died as the son took the bread. Then people went on top of the son, and they were both dead, side by side.	Elie felt that there was no longer a reason to live and struggle. Elie said that he was on 15, and he had seen so many horrible things already.

Face of Current Conflicts and Crises Hubert Annen, Carl Castro, 2025-10-13 In the past two years humanity has been confronted with unprecedented crises most recently the war in Ukraine The flood of related media reports as well as refugee flows the looming energy shortage and individual fear of expansion of the conflict has forced the war into reality and has been made part of our everyday lives Against this backdrop the psychological impact and implications become apparent At the core of such an event it is members of the armed forces and their families who must find ways to deal with the experiences and their consequences In addition it is also essential to consider the affected population who suffer directly from the war are exposed to propaganda and whose morale willpower and resilience influence the direction in which the conflict develops In this context how the individual deals with such events are of paramount importance For example a certain war fatigue among the population of European countries can lead to a decline in idealistic but also material support These psychological aspects also play a role for members of humanitarian organizations or similar groupings that are involved in a supporting capacity or in conflict management who in turn must face specific mental challenges This raises the fundamental question of how psychological knowledge and respective methods can contribute to preventing and ending such conflicts

Personality and Cognition in Economic Decision Making Aurora García-Gallego, Manuel I. Ibáñez, Nikolaos Georgantzis, 2017-08-22 Psychologists studying cognitive processes and personality have increasingly benefited from the wealth of theory methodology and decision making paradigms used in economics and game theory Similarly for the economists personality traits and basic cognitive processes offer a set of coherent explanatory constructs in economic behavior Given the debate on preference invariance and behavioral consistency across contexts and domains the papers in this topic shed light on the existence and effect of stable sets of idiosyncratic features on economic decision making While the effects of personality and cognition on economic decisions remain under explored the papers contributed in this topic offer more than a stimulus for further research The general message could be that personality and cognitive processes offer the stable idiosyncratic ground on which individual decisions are made
