Operationalizing Health Reform The Basics:

Operationalized Psychodynamic Diagnosis OPD-2 OPD Task Force, 2008-01-01 Operationalized Psychodynamic Diagnosis OPD is a form of multiaxial diagnostic and classification system based on psychodynamic principles analogous to those based on other principles such as DSM IV and ICD 10. The OPD is based on five axes: I experience of illness and prerequisites for treatment; II interpersonal relations; III conflict; IV structure; and V mental and psychosomatic disorders, in line with Chapter V F of the ICD 10. After an initial interview lasting 1-2 hours, the clinician or researcher can evaluate the patient's psychodynamics according to these axes and enter them in the checklists and evaluation forms provided. The new version OPD 2 has been developed from a purely diagnostic system to include a set of tools and procedures for treatment planning and for measuring change as well as for determining the appropriate main focuses of treatment and developing appropriate treatment strategies. How to Operationalize Gender Issues in Country Work International Monetary Fund. Strategy, Policy, & Review Department, 2018-06-13 Reducing gender gaps can have important economic benefits. Gender gaps remain significant on a global scale both with respect to opportunities and outcomes. For example, gender-based legal restrictions in many parts of the world as well as barriers in access to education, healthcare, and financial services prevent women from fully participating in the economy. In turn, labor force participation rates are lower among women than men. Gender equality can play an important role in promoting economic stability by boosting economic productivity and growth, enhancing economic resilience, and reducing income inequality. The Fund has begun operationalizing gender issues in its work. Staff has contributed to the economic literature through country level and cross-country analytical studies confirming the macro criticality of gender issues in a broad set of circumstances. Gender issues are also increasingly becoming an integral part of capacity development through technical assistance and training. And in country work, two waves of gender pilots have been completed, encompassing both surveillance and Fund-supported programs and covering all regions of the world and all levels of income. A third wave is under way. Coverage of gender issues in staff reports should be selective and calibrated to the degree of macroeconomic significance. All teams should consider whether gender issues are relevant, taking into account also the authorities' priorities but with no presumption that gender issues will be covered everywhere or every year and with in-depth coverage anticipated in only a limited number of cases any year. Staff should point to macroeconomic significance where it exists with analysis focused on aspects with economic implications and specific policy advice limited to areas where there is Fund expertise. Where relevant, country teams should leverage external expertise. This note provides an overview of good practices and resources available to staff. The note is consistent with the 2015 Guidance Note for Surveillance Under Article IV Consultations and draws also on the 2013 Guidance Note on Jobs and Growth Issues in Surveillance and Program Work. It provides examples of good practice with respect to coverage of gender issues in country reports and lays out the resources available to country teams both with respect to existing analytical work as well as the availability of data and tools In Search of Equity Ronald Bayer, 2012-12-06 I Several years ago when the Carter administration announced that it would support congressional action to end the public funding of abortions the President was asked at a press conference whether he thought that such a policy was unfair he responded Life is unfair His remarks provoked a storm of controversy For other than those who for principled reasons opposed abortion on any grounds it seemed that the President's comments were cruel violating what was thought to be an American commitment to providing equal access to health services to all citizens regardless of their capacity to pay Those sentiments had in fact been reflected in public opinion polls that had for at least three decades indicated that Americans supported the proposition that the government should guarantee health care to all Ultimately those beliefs had been translated into the often expressed political demand for a one class system of health care This commitment to equality is rather remarkable American society evidences a striking willingness to tolerate vast inequalities with regard to income and wealth While it guarantees education to all children there is not even a pretense that the children of the wealthy and the children of the poor ought to get precisely the same kind of schooling While some commitment Hazel Erskine The Polls Health Insurance Public Opinion Quarterly XXXIX Spring 1975 128 143
