The purpose of his trip was to share the teachings and vision of the Baha'i Faith with the people of the West. This collection of inspiring and uplifting talks documents an extraordinary series of public addresses Abdu'l Baha gave on his historic trip to the West in the early twentieth century. Addressing such subjects as the nature of humankind, the soul, the Prophets of God, the establishment of world peace, the abolition of all forms of prejudice, the equality of men and women, the harmony of science and religion, and the causes of war, Abdu'l Baha spoke in a profound yet simple manner that transcended all barriers

How to Explain the Paris Negotiations. Environmental Cooperation in the Light of Behavioral Economics Mareike L.,2018-10-09 Seminar paper from the year 2017 in the subject Economy Environment economics grade 1 7 University of Porto Faculdade de Economia course Environmental Economics and Sustainable Development language English abstract One of the biggest challenges of the globalized world is still the establishment and maintenance of international cooperation. The growing interdependency produced by cross border externalities demand for joint actions in an anarchic world order. The United Nations UN or the international economic system consisting of the World Bank, the International Monetary Funds IMF and the World Trade Organization WTO are some examples of mostly successful supranational forms of cooperation. What those institutions not include is the threat of climate change which is today's biggest challenge of international matter. With its Report Limits to Growth from the year 1972, The Club of Rome not only put the subject of climate change for the first time on the political and scientific agenda but also raised the public awareness of this problem. From this point on, ongoing efforts were made to commonly regulate emissions and control the sustainability of climate goods. Nevertheless, the first binding agreement on climate change, the Paris Agreement, entered into force 44 years after this report on the 4th of November 2016. For some political and economic theorists, this is no surprise. Following the assumptions of the economic game theory and global governance approaches, non-cooperative behavior is the consequence of rational decision making. Basic dilemma situations depict the competition about non-excludable goods and foresee the challenges of global climate negotiations. The latest success on the Climate Conference in Paris challenges these assumptions and raises new questions about human cooperative behavior. While this matter has its origins in the neoclassical approach of game theory behavioral economists started to examine the phenomenon and question the basic assumption of rational choice Homo oeconomicus is also a Homo socialis Aspects of both facets of human behavior shall be analyzed in this paper in order to explain the mechanisms of cooperation on climate change The existing literature focuses mostly on only one of these aspects which leads to an incomplete picture of the decision making process Talks By Abdul Baha Given In Paris Abdul Baha,2021-09-10 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public To ensure a quality reading experience this work has been proofread and republished using a format that seamlessly blends the original graphical elements with text in an easy to read typeface We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant The Parisians Edward Bulwer Lytton Baron Lytton,1878 The Parisians Edward George Earle Lytton Bulwer-Lytton Lytton (1st baron),1874 Harper's New Monthly Magazine ,1895 Important American periodical dating back to 1850 Journal of the Conversations of Lord Byron with the Countess of Blessington George Gordon Byron Baron Byron,Marguerite Countess of Blessington,1894 The Current Digest of the Soviet Press ,1973
