Niedermeyer,2019-08-20 Tesla is the most exciting car company in a generation but can it live up to the hype Tesla Motors and CEO Elon Musk have become household names shaking up the staid auto industry by creating a set of innovative electric vehicles that have wowed the marketplace and defied conventional wisdom The company's market valuation now rivals that of long established automakers and to many industry observers Tesla is defining the future of the industry But behind the hype Tesla has some serious deficiencies that raise questions about its sky high valuation and even its ultimate survival Tesla's commitment to innovation has led it to reject the careful zero defects approach of other car manufacturers even as it struggles to mass produce cars reliably and with minimal defects While most car manufacturers struggle with the razor thin margins of mid priced sedans Tesla's strategy requires that the Model 3 finally bring it to profitability even as the high priced Roadster and Model S both lost money And Tesla's approach of continually focusing on the future even as commitments and deadlines are repeatedly missed may ultimately test the patience of all but its most devoted fans In Ludicrous journalist and auto industry analyst Edward Niedermeyer lays bare the disconnect between the popular perception of Tesla and the day to day realities of the company and the cars it produces Blending original reporting and never before published insider accounts with savvy industry analysis Niedermeyer tells the story of Tesla as it's never been told before with clear eyes objectivity and insight

After Henry Ford's model made its debut, owning a car was a symbol of status because it could only be afforded by the wealthy. Once the process of Henry Ford's mass production was introduced, cars could be afforded by a wider dynamic of people and ownership became an affordable growing trend. The production of automobiles was a great help to the economy. It provided jobs across industries including positions in steel and machine tool makers for the different metal parts of the car. The increase in the need of supplies and other parts of the car including the battery, head lights, paint and interior upholstery were the driving forces for new businesses to thrive. Cars being a part of the everyday norm meant they would need routine car maintenance which became a major source of business. This also led to the increase of petroleum sales as the demanded use of cars increased. When WWII came, the US was able to use the jeep for military use; additionally, Chrysler reworked the jeep design to create tanks. Moreover, car production in Europe turned its focus from the people's car to cars designed for the military.
