Don't Use Your Words! Jane Juffer, 2019-05-28 How children are taught to control their feelings and how they resist this emotional management through cultural production Today even young kids talk to each other across social media by referencing memes songs and movements constructing a common vernacular that resists parental educational and media imperatives to name their feelings and thus control their bodies Over the past two decades children s television programming has provided a therapeutic site for the processing of emotions such as anger but in doing so has enforced normative structures of feeling that Jane Juffer argues weaken the intensity and range of children s affective experiences Don t Use Your Words seeks to challenge those norms highlighting the ways that kids express their feelings through cultural productions including drawings fan art memes YouTube videos dance moves and conversations while gaming online Focusing on kids between ages five and nine Don t Use Your Words situates these productions in specific contexts including immigration policy referenced in drawings by Central American children just released from detention centers and electoral politics as contested in kids artwork expressing their anger at Trump s victory Taking issue with the mainstream tendency to speak on behalf of children Juffer argues that kids have the agency to answer for themselves what does it feel like to be a kid

Parenting in a Digital World Catherine Page Jeffery, 2025-03-17 This book focuses on the challenges of parenting in the digital age providing a counter narrative to and critique of risk and cyber safety narratives as well as some suggestions for a way forward Drawing on qualitative research with Australian families this book explores the knowledges practices anxieties and lived experiences of families themselves It demonstrates that the realities of family life in the digital age are more complex than the headlines and cyber safety advice would have us believe as parents grapple with balancing their own anxieties and social expectations about what it means to be a good parent with the practices desires and rights of their child It addresses key questions including How much attention should we pay to media headlines about the dangers of contemporary media What is actually worrying Australian parents and how do they address these concerns Why do young people love media so much How capable are young people of actually managing online risk What is the right way to parent in the digital age to ensure young people's safety and wellbeing while minimising family conflict. Aimed at media studies scholars and students as well as parents and policy makers seeking a more comprehensive understanding of the broader academic research surrounding young people, media and parenting, this book argues that parent and child knowledges, practices and experiences must be better accounted for within the online safety ecosystem as well as in policy development and that families need encouragement and guidance to help them adopt more democratic approaches to parenting in the digital age.
