future of the internet and the potential impacts on business and society Value Creation in E-Business Management Matthew L. Nelson, Michael J. Shaw, Troy J. Strader, 2009-08-07 Recent economic, political, and technological forces are changing the landscape of electronic business and electronic commerce. Although great strides have been made over the past in understanding, researching, and advancing e-business, rarely have we witnessed its use so profound and yet its limitations so pronounced than what has been on global public display for the past 18 months. As a result, new e-commerce strategies and techniques are emerging. Collaborative value creation is essential, and e-business models are being refined and developed with special attention towards IS in financial markets, health care, and related institutions. It is for these reasons and many more that we are so particularly excited and grateful for the collection of papers included in this Value Creation in e-Business Management LNBIP volume number 36. The papers selected in this volume address these emerging e-business issues and are organized into four research lines: Business Models for the Digital Economy, Electronic and Mobile Commerce, Behavioral and Global Issues, IS in Financial Markets and Institutions, Web 2.0 and E-Commerce, and Collaborative Value Creation. The first group, Business Models for the Digital Economy, provides a closer examination of business models from a rich mixture of segments in the IT industry. They include Hoyer and Stanoivska Slabeva's business model types for enterprise mashup intermediaries, Riehle's commercial open source business model, Chen's interesting comparison between iPhone versus Kindles in electronic book sales, and Lyons' and coauthors' business models in emerging online services.
