

Intermittent Fasting

Stage 1: Right After Eating

- Carbohydrates from food are converted into glucose (sugar) and released into the bloodstream.
- Blood sugar level rises.
- Insulin stimulates the conversion of glucose into glycogen as energy storage.

Stage 2: 3 Hours After Eating

- While insulin works, blood sugar level drops.
- In a non-fasting state, glycogen is used as energy.
- Excess glycogen that is not used is stored in the body as fats.

Stage 3: 9 Hours After Eating

- As blood sugar levels continue to drop, the body reacts by converting glycogen back into glucose and releasing it into the bloodstream.
- Fat is not yet used as an energy source, as there is still glucose and glycogen available.

Stage 4: 11 Hours After Eating

- Now that the stored glycogen has been almost used up, a metabolic switch is flipped.
- Fat is burned as it is used as energy.

Stage 5: 14-16 Hours After Eating

- As fat-burning continues, fatty acids are converted into ketones via ketosis.
- Ketones provide energy to the brain, heart and other vital organs.

lives leading to feelings of humiliation and depression Marcel Van Herpen identifies three causes of this phenomenon new childrearing methods the advent of the social media and a transformation of Western individualism He weighs the arguments for and against a shame society and concludes that a guilt centered approach remains preferable Although shame increasingly permeates everyday life the author argues that its rise is not a fatality He emphasizes that shame is a dynamic phenomenon and that one can observe trends which lead to an increase of shame as well as to its decrease Examples of the latter are a growing sensitivity to the pain caused by anti Black racism the decrease of anti LGBTQIA prejudices and efforts to end the stigmatization of people with disabilities Along with exploring its increase The Rise of the Shame Society demonstrates that there are ways to overcome shame
