Reading Passage

Name:

Beavers Activity 1

The Busy Beaver

The beaver is the largest rodent in North America. This semi-aquatic mammal lives on land but spends a lot of time in the water. The beaver builds big dams. They search for branches, rocks, mud and other plants, and cut down trees with their sharp teeth. Branches are pushed into the muddy bottom of their dam. This creates the base of the dam.

When beavers build dams, they change the way water flows through the wild. Over time, the water builds up behind the dam, creating a pond. As water flows through the dam, sediment turns into a pond.

When the beaver area has enough water, beavers will pile up and eventually stop the flow of water to their lodge. Then will keep working on their dam and lodge. In time, the sediment buildup makes the pond deeper, and the beavers will abandon their lodge and dam.

Once the beavers leave, the dam starts to hold back the water and the water will drain out. This is good for growing wetland plants. Eventually, the area is thanks to the hard work of the beavers.
