Ring Doorbell In The Us Buy Online:

How to Resist Amazon and Why Danny Caine, 2022-09-20 When a company's workers are literally dying on the job when their business model relies on preying on local businesses and even their own vendors when their CEO is the richest person in the world while their workers make low wages with impossible quotas wouldn't you want to resist Danny Caine owner of Raven Book Store in Lawrence Kansas has been an outspoken critic of the seemingly unstoppable Goliath of the bookselling world Amazon In this book he lays out the case for shifting our personal money and civic investment away from global corporate behemoths and to small local independent businesses Well researched and lively his tale covers the history of big box stores the big political drama of delivery and the perils of warehouse work He shows how Amazon's ruthless discount strategies mean authors publishers and even Amazon themselves can lose money on every book sold And he spells out a clear path to resistance in a world where consumers are struggling to get by In depth research is interspersed with charming personal anecdotes from bookstore life making this a readable fascinating essential book for the 2020s

We, the Data Wendy H. Wong, 2023-10-10 A rallying call for extending human rights beyond our physical selves and why we need to reboot rights in our data intensive world Winner of the 2024 Balsillie Prize for Public Policy Shortlisted 2024 Lionel Gelber Prize Our data intensive world is here to stay but does that come at the cost of our humanity in terms of autonomy community dignity and equality In We the Data Wendy H Wong argues that we cannot allow that to happen Exploring the pervasiveness of data collection and tracking Wong reminds us that we are all stakeholders in this digital world who are currently being left out of the most pressing conversations around technology ethics and policy This book clarifies the nature of datafication and calls for an extension of human rights to recognize how data complicate what it means to safeguard and encourage human potential As we go about our lives we are co creating data through what we do We must embrace that these data are a part of who we are Wong explains even as current policies do not yet reflect the extent to which human experiences have changed This means we are more than mere subjects or sources of data by products that can be harvested and used by technology companies and governments By exploring data rights facial recognition technology our posthumous rights and our need for a right to data literacy Wong has crafted a compelling case for engaging as stakeholders to hold data collectors accountable Just as the Universal Declaration of Human Rights laid the global groundwork for human rights We the Data gives us a foundation upon which we claim human rights in the age of data

Privacy, Technology, and the Criminal Process Andrew Roberts, Joe Purshouse, Jason Bosland, 2023-07-28 This collection considers the implications for privacy of the utilisation of new technologies in the criminal process In most modern liberal democratic states privacy is considered a basic right Many national constitutions and almost all international human rights instruments include some guarantee of privacy Yet privacy interests appear to have had relatively little influence on criminal justice policy making The threat that technology poses to these interests demands critical re evaluation of current law policy and practice This is provided by the contributions to this volume. They offer legal, criminological, philosophical and comparative perspectives. The book will be of interest to legal and criminological scholars and postgraduate students. Its interdisciplinary methodology and focus on the intersection between law and technology make it also relevant for philosophers and those interested in science and technology studies.

American Bungalow, 2002 Technocreep and the Politics of Things Not Seen Neda Atanasoski, Nassim Parvin, 2025-04-11

New and emerging technologies especially ones that infiltrate intimate spaces, relations, homes and bodies are often referred to as creepy in media and political discourses. In Technocreep and the Politics of Things Not Seen Neda Atanasoski and Nassim Parvin introduce a feminist theory of creep that they substantiate through critical engagement with smart homes, smart dust, smart desires and smart forests toward dreams of feminist futures.

Contributing authors further illuminate what is otherwise obscured, assumed or dismissed in characterizations of technology as creepy or creeping. Considering diverse technologies such as border surveillance and China's credit system to sexcams and home assistants, the volume's essays and artworks demonstrate that the potentials and pitfalls of artificial intelligence and digital and robotic technologies cannot be assessed through binaries of seeing/being, seen/privacy, surveillance or harmful/useful. Together, their multifaceted and multimodal approach transcends such binaries, accounting for technological relations that exceed sight to include touch, presence, trust and diverse modes of collectivity. As such, this volume develops creep as a feminist analytic and creative mode on par with technology's complex entanglement with intimate local and global politics.
