Multiculturalism Without Culture Paperback 2009 Author Anne Phillips:

Religion, Gender, and the Public Sphere Niamh Reilly, Stacey Scriver, 2013-11-26 The re emergence of religion as a significant cultural social and political force is not gender neutral Tensions between claims for women s equality and the rights of sexual minorities on one side and the claims of religions on the other side are well documented across all major religions and regions It is also well recognized in feminist scholarship that gender identities and ethno religious identities work together in complex ways that are often exploited by dominant groups Hence a more comprehensive understanding of the changing role and influence of religion in the public sphere more widely requires complex multidisciplinary and comparative gender analyses Most recent discussion on these matters however especially in Europe has focused primarily on the perceived subordinate status of Muslim women These debates are a reminder of the deep interrelation of questions of gender identity human rights and religious freedom more generally The relatively narrow albeit important purview of such discussions so far however underscores the need to extend the horizon of enquiry vis vis religion gender and the public sphere beyond the binary of Islam versus the West Religion Gender and the Public Sphere moves gender from the periphery to the centre of contemporary debates about the role of religion in public and political life It offers a timely multidisciplinary collection of gender focused essays that address an array of challenges arising from the changing role and influence of religious organisations identities actors and values in the public sphere in contemporary multicultural and democratic societies

Multiculturalism without Culture Anne Phillips, 2009-02-17 Public opinion in recent years has soured on multiculturalism due in large part to fears of radical Islam In Multiculturalism without Culture Anne Phillips contends that critics misrepresent culture as the explanation of everything individuals from minority and non Western groups do She puts forward a defense of multiculturalism that dispenses with notions of culture instead placing individuals themselves at its core Multiculturalism has been blamed for encouraging the oppression of women forced marriages female genital cutting school girls wearing the hijab Many critics opportunistically deploy gender equality to justify the retreat from multiculturalism hijacking the equality agenda to perpetuate cultural stereotypes Phillips informs her argument with the feminist insistence on recognizing women as agents and defends her position using an unusually broad range of literature including political theory philosophy feminist theory law and anthropology She argues that critics and proponents alike exaggerate the unity distinctness and intractability of cultures thereby encouraging a perception of men and women as dupes constrained by cultural dictates Opponents of multiculturalism may think the argument against accommodating cultural difference is over and won but they are wrong Phillips believes multiculturalism still has an important role to play in achieving greater social equality In this book she offers a new way of addressing dilemmas of justice and equality in multiethnic multicultural societies intervening at this critical moment when so many Western countries are poised to abandon multiculturalism

Legitimacy Gap Vincent Depaigne, 2017 This book addresses the legitimacy gap created by the removal of religion as a source of legitimacy for the foundation of secular states when many of the world's states are still profoundly religious but require procedural rather than substantive grounds for constitutional arrangements Re-visioning Historical Fiction for Young Readers Kim Wilson, 2011-06-15 This study is concerned with how readers are positioned to interpret the past in historical fiction for children and young adults Looking at literature published within the last thirty to forty years Wilson identifies and explores a prevalent trend for re-visioning and rewriting the past according to modern social and political ideological assumptions Fiction within this genre while concerned with the past at the level of content is additionally concerned with present views of that historical past because of the future to which it is moving Specific areas of discussion include the identification of a new sub-genre Living history fiction stories of Joan of Arc historical fiction featuring agentic females the very popular Scholastic Press historical journal series fictions of war and historical fiction featuring multicultural discourses Wilson observes specific traits in historical fiction written for children most notably how the notion of positive progress into the future is nuanced differently in this literature in which the concept of progress from the past is inextricably linked to the protagonist's potential for agency and the realization of subjectivity The genre consistently manifests a concern with identity construction that in turn informs and influences how a metanarrative of positive progress is played out This book engages in a discussion of the functionality of the past within the genre and offers an interpretative frame for the sifting out of the present from the past in historical fiction for young readers Multiculturalism Without Culture, 2007

Captivating Technology Ruha Benjamin, 2019-06-07 The contributors to Captivating Technology examine how carceral technologies such as electronic ankle monitors and predictive policing algorithms are being deployed to classify and coerce specific populations and whether these innovations can be appropriated and reimagined for more liberatory ends

Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1997 Balkan Fighters in the Syrian War Tanja Dramac Jiries, 2021-09-14 This book analyses the process of the recruitment of foreign fighters from the Western Balkans specifically Bosnia and Herzegovina and Kosovo to Syria and Iraq from 2012 to 2015 Utilizing in depth semi structured interviews with foreign fighters and their families as well as a number of relevant stakeholders it answers the question of what were the processes and circumstances leading up to the departure of foreign fighters from Bosnia and Herzegovina and Kosovo and what informed their agency The author draws on the theories of social movement approaches more specifically contentious politics literature and utilizes the specific concepts of triggering mechanisms which refer to the enabling circumstances that make the radicalization and departure possible and pleasure in agency to elaborate on individual motivation The book also shows how a wider state fragility within the context of the post Yugoslav wars and the transitional period that never ended aided radicalization and how an incomplete process of post war transition can fuel the process of political and religious radicalization creating a wider enabling web for recruitment It will be of interest to students and scholars of Southeast European politics and foreign policy post war democratic transition security policy and radicalization more broadly
