4. Which nursing intervention is an independent function of the professional nurse?
- Administering oral analgesics
  - Requesting diagnostic studies
  - Teaching the patient perineal care
  - Providing wound care to a surgical incision

ANS: C

Nurses are now responsible for various independent functions, including teaching, counseling, and intervening in nonmedical problems. Interventions initiated by the physician and carried out by the nurse are called dependent functions. Administering oral analgesics is a dependent function; it is initiated by a physician and carried out by a nurse. Requesting diagnostic studies is a dependent function. Providing wound care is a dependent function; however, the physician prescribes the type of wound care through direct orders or protocol.

5. Which response by the nurse is the most therapeutic when the patient states, "I'm so afraid to have a cesarean birth"?
- "Everything will be OK."
  - "Don't worry about it. It will be over soon."
  - "What concerns you most about a cesarean birth?"
  - "The physician will be in later and you can talk to him."

ANS: C

The response, "What concerns you most about a cesarean birth" focuses on what the patient is saying and asks for clarification, which is the most therapeutic response. The response, "Everything will be ok" is belittling the patient's feelings. The response, "Don't worry about it. It will be over soon" will indicate that the patient's feelings are not important. The response, "The physician will be in later and you can talk to him" does not allow the patient to verbalize her feelings when she wishes to do that.

DIF: Cognitive Level: Application OBJ: Nursing Process Step: Implementation
MSC: Patient Needs: Psychosocial Integrity

6. In which step of the nursing process does the nurse determine the appropriate interventions for the identified nursing diagnosis?
