Study Guide James Schmiechen, 2004      World History, 2000      World History: Patterns of Interaction
McDougal-Littell Publishing Staff, 2004-03      Receptor-Oriented Communication for Hui Muslims in China Enoch Jinsik Kim, 2018-04-18

There are many books that highlight the need and importance of mission toward unreached people. Unfortunately few of them deal with the importance of understanding the real life of unreached people and how to analyze them. This book identifies conceptual issues for the development of receptor oriented communication strategies among young educated urban Hui YEUs in Hui Muslims in China's northwestern cities in order to achieve culturally relevant churches in those areas. It is written to help not only those who are interested in the unreached but also those who are interested in Muslim evangelism, urban sociology, biblical exegesis, contextual church planting, communication and mission strategy. Enoch Jinsik Kim utilizes a new approach: virtual community mission for planting offline churches that integrates the use of local church driven Internet, community traditional media and offline task teams from a multi ethnic local church. While the research focuses on the Chinese Muslim context, the identification of the young urban and educated as a strategic group for mission can be applied in other Muslim and non Muslim contexts. This research is useful to cross cultural communicators, church planters and all those interested in interpersonal relationships.

Expanding Access to Justice Paula Wojcikiewicz Almeida, Giulia Tavares Romy, 2024-12-02

This book addresses the repercussions of expanded participation in international judicial decision making by investigating community interest issues. Focusing on the International Court of Justice (ICJ), the book reveals the growing involvement formal and/or informal of State and non State actors (NSAs) in the ICJ's contentious and advisory functions. This includes the participation of States, intergovernmental organisations (IGOs) and NSAs i.e. non governmental organisations (NGOs) and individuals. The book concentrates on the role and multifunctional character of international courts and tribunals (ICTs). As a component of the international governance structure, ICTs are equipped to protect, express and shape values that reflect community interests by the power granted them in international treaties. They can also be considered a key element for promoting the international rule of law, including the provision of global public goods. Public interest litigation is often used as a vehicle to advance human rights at the national and international level. As the main judicial organ of the UN, the participation of State and NSAs in ICJ proceedings is a subject of the utmost importance to international dispute settlement in general. The decisions delivered by the World Court can help to pursue community interests, for instance by setting internationally relevant precedents or concepts as obiter dicta. By applying an empirical research methodology to map ICJ practices concerning notifications, submissions and/or applications of State and NSAs as well as other forms of submitting relevant information to the Court under the ICJ Statute and Rules, the book addresses the potential and limitations of expanded participation in the ICJ's contentious cases and advisory proceedings. The analysis employs broad definitions of participants and participation in order to reflect the contemporary dynamics of the actors involved in international practice      McDougal Littell World History: Patterns of Interaction McDougal Littell,1998-11      Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2003 United States.
