I Remember Me Josephine Ross,2011

This volume investigates mnemonic self reference effects in preschoolers referring to memory recall of stimuli as a function of the depth of mental processing It explores a series of 7 experiments exploring the role of self in 3 and 4 year olds event memory This effect is thought to be based on the organizational properties of a highly elaborated self concept and so offers a clear route to study the child s developing sense of self However very few studies have investigated the origin and the development of this effect New evidence is provided to suggest that preschool children like adults show a mnemonic advantage for material that has been physically linked with the self through performance of a depicted action Experiment 1 Moreover 3 and 4 year olds show a bias for material that has been visually and linguistically processed with the self image Experiments 2 3 4 and material that has been socio cognitively linked to the self in terms of ownership Experiments 5 6 7 The data imply that both bottom up kinesthetic feedback self concept and top down attention aspects of self reflection may play a supporting role in early event memory perhaps representing a nascent form of autobiographical processing Importantly this research highlights a promising methodology for elucidating the executive role of the self in cognition
