

How to create advertising that sells

by David Ogilvy

Ogilvy & Mather has created over $1,480,000,000 worth of advertising, and spent $4,500,000 tracking the results.

Here, with all the dogmatism of brevity, are 38 of the things we have learned.

1. The most important decision. We have learned that the effect of your advertising on your sales depends more on this decision than on any other. How should we position our product?

Should you position SCHWARTZ as a soft drink — or as a mineral?

Should you position BQ-T as a product for dry skin or as a product which gets hands really clean?

The results of your campaign depend less on how we write your advertising than on how you

We have been unable to establish any correlation between the number of seeds and sales.

At Ogilvy & Mather we now give an annual award for the campaign which contributes the most to sales.

Successful advertising with the product without drawing attention to itself. It gives the consumer's attention to the product.

Under the product, the largest and smallest

B. Psychological segmentation. Any good agency knows how to position products for demographic segments of the market—for men, for teenage children, for farmers in the South, etc.

But Ogilvy & Mather has learned that it often pays to position products for psychological segments of the market.

Our Mercedes-Benz advertising is positioned to fit new consumers who scoff at "status symbols" and reject slicker appeals to wealth.

Mr. Don't hurry news. It's easier to interest the consumer in a product when it is new than it was

Has your group heard of an agency using medical background under a new business presentation.

18. Stand-ups. The stand-up system can be effective. If it is delivered with straightforward business

24. Hours of singularity. The average consumer now uses 70,000 commercials a year, just alone.

Some of these slide off by memory like water off a duck's back.

Give your commercials a flourish of stagey fancy, a flare that will stick in the consumer's mind. One such flare is the MICHIGNE DEVICE, or role vest symbol—like the crown in our commercial for Imperial Machine.

TL. Animation & cartoons. Less than five per cent of television commercials use cartoons or animation. They are less persuasive than live commercials.

The consumer cannot identify herself with the character in the cartoon. And cartoons do not induce belief.

Abstract: Chlamydia trachomatis and Neisseria gonorrhoeae are the two most common sexually transmitted pathogens in the United States. Both are highly prevalent in the African American population, and the rates of infection are increasing. The purpose of this review is to discuss the epidemiology, clinical presentation, diagnosis, and treatment of these two pathogens.

"At 60 miles an hour, the loudest noise in this new Buick-Rover comes from the electric clock."

Ad Localize headlines: In local advertising it pays to include the name of the specific locale.

21. Select your prospects. When you select a product which is consumed by a large group, it pays to "bar"

III. Yes, pay falls off rapidly as time between life and death increases (1991)

11. Every appeal has gotten considerable support, every. The 3 words and asks himself
