Excerpt from My Arctic Journal 1893 A Year Among Ice Fields and Eskimos I rarely if ever take up the thread of our Arctic experiences without reverting to two pictures one is the first night that we spent on the Greenland shore after the departure of the Kite when in a little tent on the rocks a tent which the furious wind threatened every moment to carry away bodily she watched by my side as I lay a helpless cripple with a broken leg our small party the only human beings on that shore and the little Kite from which we had landed drifted far out among the ice by the storm and invisible through the rain Long afterward she told me that every unwonted sound of the wind set her heart beating with the thoughts of some hungry bear roaming along the shore and attracted by the unusual sight of the tent yet she never gave a sign at the time of her fears lest it should disturb me About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works My Arctic Journal Josephine Diebitsch Peary, Robert E. 1856-1920 Peary, 2013-10 This is a reproduction of a book published before 1923 This book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred
