combines textual analysis and cultural criticism to explain how Berry's literary forms encourage readers to practice virtues of renewal. While the written word alone cannot enact change, Bilbro asserts that Berry's poetry, essays, and fiction can inspire people to act. As Berry writes, practice resurrection. Bilbro examines the distinct yet symbiotic features of these three genres, demonstrating the importance of the humanities in supporting tenable economies. He uses Berry's pieces to suggest the need for more robust language for discussing conservation, ecology, and the natural and regenerative process of death. Bilbro additionally translates Berry's literature to a wider audience, putting him in conversation with philosophers and theologians such as Ivan Illich, Willie Jennings, Charles Taylor, and Augustine. The lessons that Berry and his work have to offer are not only for those interested in cultivating the land but also for those who cultivate their communities and live mindfully. In short, these lessons are pertinent to all who are willing to make an effort to live the examined life. Such formative work is not dramatic or quick, but it can foster the deep and lasting transformation necessary to develop a more sustainable culture and economy.

Chicago Tribune Index, 2000     Drug Topics, 1960     Design, 2005     The Bloomsbury Introduction to Postmodern Realist Fiction T.V. Reed, 2021-03-25. Postmodern realist fiction uses realism, disrupting literary techniques to make interventions into the real social conditions of our time. A lucid, comprehensive introduction to the genre as well as to a wide variety of voices, this book discusses more than forty writers from a diverse range of backgrounds and over several decades, with special attention to 21st-century novels. Writers covered include Kathy Acker, Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, Julia Alvarez, Sherman Alexie, Gloria Anzaldúa, Margaret Atwood, Toni Cade Bambara, A.S.
