

PRESSURE ULCER ASSESSMENT

Pressure ulcers (also called pressure sores, decubitus ulcers, and bedsores) occur when prolonged pressure damages the skin and underlying tissues, impairing blood supply. They typically develop in people with reduced mobility, such as those confined to bed, elderly, or with diabetes and circulation problems.

VULNERABLE PRESSURE ULCER AREAS

Areas prone to pressure sores are typically over bony prominences, vulnerable due to heightened pressure and friction from prolonged contact with surfaces like beds or chairs. Commonly affected areas include:

- Back of the head
- Ears
- Shoulder
- Elbow
- Low back
- Buttocks
- Hip
- Sacrum
- Heel

ASSESSMENT

- Explain the assessment to the patient and obtain informed consent.
- Wash your hands and don personal protective equipment as per hospital guidelines.
- Conduct a comprehensive assessment, considering overall health, medical history, and individual needs.
- Inspect the skin for temperature, color, moisture, integrity, and elasticity.
- Check for warning signs of pressure ulcers, such as color changes, warmth, and tenderness.
- If redness is present, gently press down on it for three seconds. It should blanch (turn white) but return to red when you remove your finger. Persistent redness indicates potential pressure damage, which can develop into a pressure ulcer if untreated. Note that darker pigmented skin may not blanch.

SKIN INSPECTION

Inspect the skin for temperature, color, moisture, integrity and elasticity.

If there is an area of redness present, gently press down on it for 3 seconds. It should blanch (turn white) but the redness should return once you remove your finger. It is important to note that darker pigmented skin may not blanch. If the area remains white when you remove your finger, this indicates pressure damage to the underlying tissue. If left untreated, this can develop into a pressure ulcer.

PRESSURE ULCER STAGES

PREVENTION

Use pressure-relieving cushions and support aids to reduce pressure and prevent ulcers. Reposition regularly, repositioning, a thorough skin care routine upon discharge, and adopting a healthy lifestyle, including a balanced diet, exercise, hydration, and quitting smoking.

TREATMENT

Reduced pressure on the damaged skin, wound care, pain control, infection prevention, and appropriate nutrition are all part of treating pressure ulcers.

Keep the area dry and apply a barrier cream to any surrounding skin where incontinence is an issue. Avoid friction with rubbing or pressure. Apply a barrier cream to any surrounding skin where incontinence was an issue. Avoid friction with rubbing or pressure.

WOUND CARE

When an ulcer is broken, record the anatomical position and measure the size of the wound, assess the wound's dimensions, appearance, evaluate progress from an ulcerated area and if any red signs of infection, odor, or pain is present.

Draw the wound per policy and the manufacturer's directions for the dressing. Record (in the patient's notes) the assessment and findings, measurements and date and initial the dressing.
