

THE WAY UP TO HEAVEN

BY ROALD DAHL

To do this work I have chosen Roald Dahl's text called "the way up to heaven". Reading it above, it is narrated in the third person by an unnamed narrator; the narrator employs Mrs Forester's point of view across the narrative and seems to have extensive knowledge into her thoughts and feelings. I can also see that it is about the life of a high-class couple, as servants are appointed throughout the story. Besides, it also deals with other topics such as control, fear, freedom and change. What impresses me most is the husband's treatment of his wife; Mrs Foster is kind and sympathetic to everyone and all she wants to do is visit her family who is abroad. However, her husband is cruel and distrustful, he always keeps his wife waiting until the last moment and that makes me think that he is suspicious. Throughout history, it is seen that the wife is under the control of the husband and everything he does is to satisfy the husband, not to make him angry; like preparing ahead of time, even if the husband doesn't come out until the last moment. The writer uses metaphors to compare the husband with animals such as in " she noticed that his legs were like goat's legs in those narrow stovepipe trousers that he wore. ",

"Mind you, it is by no means certain that this is what he did, yet whenever they were to go somewhere, his timing was so accurate - just a minute or two late, you understand - and his manner so bland that it was hard to believe he wasn't purposely inflicting a nasty private little torture of his own on the unhappy lady. And one thing he must have known - that she would never dare to call out and tell him to hurry. He had disciplined her too well for that."

Mrs Foster seems to be under the absolute control of Mr Foster since at no time does she scold or rush him to be on time; he is either uncaring and does not notice, or he does notice and is being deliberately cruel. Either way, Mrs Foster has learned over the years that she cannot even tell him to hurry without risking his anger and further cruelty. He is taking advantage of the power dynamic.

Also, at the time this text is written, women had no voice or vote at all, they did what their husbands said. What is also seen in this story is that the woman has a horrible fear of losing a train, an aeroplane, or even the beginning of a movie or theatre; In this case, she is afraid of losing the plane to visit her daughter and her grandchildren, who live in Paris.

"With Mrs Foster urging him from the back seat, the man drove fast all the way, and she caught her plane with a few minutes to spare. Soon she was high up over the Atlantic, reclining comfortably in her aeroplane chair, listening to the hum of the motors, heading for Paris at last. The new mood was still with her. She felt remarkably strong and, in a queer sort of way, wonderful."

In this part of the text in which Mrs Foster decides to leave her husband at home and travel alone can reflect a drastic change in the way of acting. Until then, the woman could not do anything that Mr Foster did not leave her, but from this moment on Mrs. Foster will feel freer and at peace. The author may also be exploring the topic of connection. By leaving her
