Food and Health in Europe

Aileen Robertson, 2004-01-28 Poor nutrition foodborne disease and lack of secure access to good food make an important contribution to the burden of disease and mortality in the WHO European Region. Better diets food safety and food security will not only reduce or prevent suffering to individuals and societies but also help cut costs to health care systems and bring social and economic benefits to countries. People's chances for a healthy diet depend less on individual choices than on what food is available and whether it is affordable. Policies to benefit health through good food and nutrition must extend beyond the health sector to include sectors ranging from agriculture and food processing manufacturing and trade to transport retailing catering and advertising. Food and nutrition policies should be coordinated so that public health is given due priority in the making of food policies by non health sectors. This publication discusses in depth the components of food and nutrition policies and the evidence of supporting them. It highlights the urgent need for integrated multisectoral food and nutrition policies to encourage the sustainable production of food its safety and the provision of food of high nutritional quality for all.

Today's Nutrition and Tomorrow's Public Health: Challenges and Opportunities Irene Lenoir-Wijnkoop,Iñaki Gutiérrez-Ibarluzea,Dominique J. Dubois,2016-04-29 At the dawn of the third millennium we are confronted with a disturbing phenomenon although global life expectancy still increases this is not the case for healthy life expectancy The explanation of this seemingly contradiction is mainly due to the rising prevalence of the new pandemic of chronic non communicable diseases NCDs Even in low and middle income countries the improvement in healthcare status and life expectancy is paralleled by the increase of NCDs as in all countries worldwide Since the United Nations General Assembly held in New York in 2011 many publications have emphasized the close link between NCDs and nutrition The NCDs epidemic forces us to reconsider the public health perspectives Many governments non governmental organizations and other institutions are actively involved in educational nutrition programs and campaigns however their efforts seldom obtain the results hoped for It is extremely difficult to induce changes in lifestyle and behavior that have built up over a long period of time However it becomes urgent to adapt to our changing life environment where traditional wisdom and intuitive choices are giving way to individual thinking and search for often uncontrolled information This engenders a number of unprecedented challenges and it calls for a re appraisal of the existing paradigms to achieve an adequate management of the upstream determinants of health instead of a pre dominant medical and hospital centric approach In the era of personalized healthcare it is time to empower policy makers professionals and citizens for achieving an evidence based change in the health disease interface and decision making process for public health interventions The scientific and professional society Health Technology Assessment International HTAi has recognized nutrition as a health technology preventative by creating a Interest Group IG dedicated to research on methodologies and assessments of nutrition related public health while taking into account contextual factors ethical legal social organizational economic in order to generate meaningful outcomes for establishing evidence based health policies This Research Topic aims to elaborate on some of the potential hurdles or guarantees which have to be overcome for the sake of sustainable healthcare provisions anywhere in the world such as shortcomings in methodological approaches regulatory frameworks gaps between evidence its hierarchy and final recommendations for public health management
