Designing Spatial Culture Roderick Adams, 2023-11-07 Designing Spatial Culture investigates a powerful experiential dialogue formed between the habitation of space and a diversified cultural realm This creative proposition binds and positions human activity and experience framing its histories currency and future Whilst the book distinguishes between the conditions of the existing urban architecture interior canon it embraces a new agency of space showcasing the encounters assemblies and designs that shape human behaviours and the cultural forms of the built environment Using authoritative case studies the book examines many locations and spaces ranging from new urban landscapes historical domestic spaces and contemporary architecture It embraces the most lavish and flamboyant to the most simplistic and minimal establishing a connected cultural narrative The book shifts the focus in the spatial realm from an object based experience where space is filled with things to a more complete immersive experience combining physical and digital A key part of this exploration is the relationship between the architecture and the interior which is often the most predominant spatial experience and fundamental to the understanding spatial experience and existing cultures Without the architectural enclosure the interior would lose its site context and structure for its existence Without an interior architecture would not fully develop an engaging spatial experience for the user The book rationalises this through extended use of a spatial probe which documents and summarises an evidence based research project capturing spatial culture data from a predominantly domestic setting The book is essential reading for students and researchers in architecture interior design and urban design

Perspectives on Environment and Behavior Daniel Stokols, 2013-11-11 The inception of this volume can be traced to a series of Environmental Psychology Colloquia presented at the University of California Irvine during the spring of 1974 These colloquia were held in conjunction with Social Ecology 252 a graduate seminar on Man and the Environment Although the eight colloquia covered a wide range of topics and exemplified a diversity of research techniques they seemed to converge on some common theoretical and methodological assumptions about the nature of environment behavioral research The apparent continuities among these colloquia suggested the utility of developing a manuscript that would provide a historical overview of research on environment and behavior a representation of its major concerns and an analysis of its conceptual and empirical trends Thus expanded versions of the initial presentations were integrated with a supplemental set of invited manuscripts to yield the present volume of original contributions by leading researchers in the areas of ecological and environmental psychology
