The Changing Wildlife of Great Britain and Ireland David L. Hawksworth, 2003-06-26 Periodic comprehensive overviews of the status of the diverse organisms that make up wildlife are essential to determining trends threats and future prospects Just over 25 years ago leading authorities on different kinds of wildlife came together to prepare an assessment of their status of a wide range of organisms in Great Britain and Ireland in The Changing Flora and Fauna of Britain also edited by Professor David L. Hawksworth CBE Now in The Changing Wildlife of Great Britain and Ireland he has gathered together some of the original and also new contributors to review changes since that time and look to the future Contributions range from viruses diatoms fungi lichens mites and nematodes through butterflies dragonflies flies and slugs to flowering plants ferns mammals birds and fish The state of knowledge in different groups is assessed and the effectiveness of statutory and other measures taken to safeguard wildlife considered The picture is far from bleak ameliorating sulphur dioxide levels have benefited sensitive lichens and mosses in a dramatic way water quality improvement has been beneficial there have been few certain extinctions and rediscoveries of species thought to have been lost Biodiversity Action Plans have also benefited targeted species but habitat restoration and management for some is not always good for others But there are worrying trends in declining populations with an increasing number being regarded as threatened or endangered especially in agricultural areas and where woodland management has changed particular threats from introduced species and concern over the effects of climate change Some of the smaller organisms remain poorly known a situation unlikely to change as expertise in many is scant or being lost This stock check and look to the future will be a key source book to conservationists naturalists and professional biologists for many years to come

Pan species listing is a brilliant method to keep track of a lifetime of natural history sightings A personal list not just of birds but including every moth beetle lichen sea spider liverwort fungus slime mould cetacean anything and everything all the species you ve seen The list is maintained as part of an online community following your progress in a fun and gently competitive way But pan species listing is not just a game it generates huge amounts of good quality biological data while providing a framework for the next generation of naturalists to become experts themselves This book reveals why the approach was dreamt up as well as how to do it what the benefits are and how you too can realise them The 37 taxonomic classes used on the Pan Species Listing website each have a section showing which texts websites equipment online groups and information are needed to get started Along with a detailed section on biological recording and fieldcraft they make this a very handy guide for those that don t necessarily want to list Altogether this is a crucial text for navigating the world of natural history and biological recording in the twenty first century The book is suitable for anyone who wishes to take part in pan species listing but also those with an interest in biological recording natural history fieldwork and fieldcraft bioblitzes survey and monitoring conservation ecology record handling and analysing large lists of species
