Documenting Occupation-based Interventions to Promote Occupational Therapy's Distinct Value Rachel A. Roberts, 2017

The ability to clearly articulate the distinct contribution of occupational therapy across practice settings is essential for promoting the value of the occupational therapy profession. Challenges to documenting occupation based interventions have been identified by practitioners working in medically dominated contexts. Clear articulation of services results from a thorough understanding of the theoretical views, models of practice and frames of reference guiding the occupational therapy profession. Treatment provision that is grounded in occupation based theories, models of practice and frames of reference can facilitate the production of quality documentation. This evidence based project serves to inform entry level occupational therapy educators on the challenges practitioners experience when documenting occupation based interventions.

Recognizing and understanding identified challenges can lead to the development of effective teaching strategies that promote student articulation of occupation based interventions while utilizing the profession's distinct language and core concepts of occupation. Occupational Therapy Models for Intervention with Children and Families Sandra Barker Dunbar, 2007. This textbook explores recent theoretical models that enable occupational therapists to practice and interact with families in a more holistic and occupation centered manner. It offers the latest information on viewing the broader contexts of environment and family in order to meet diverse occupational needs in a range of settings. The editor presents a variety of case scenarios that feature culturally diverse populations and varying diagnoses of children with occupational needs. With contributions from 11 leaders in occupational therapy, this comprehensive text is designed to increase awareness and understanding of theoretical models and their relationship to current occupational therapy practice with today's children and families. Traditional frames of reference in pediatric practice are explored including sensory integration and neurodevelopmental treatment. Some current theoretical models discussed include the Model of Human Occupation, the Person-Environment-Occupation model, the Ecology of Human Performance model and the Occupational Adaptation model. The new Occupational Therapy Practice Framework is incorporated throughout the text. Overall, the textbook employs a practical approach to this significant aspect of pediatric practice in occupational therapy. 50 Studies Every Occupational Therapist Should Know Beth Pyatak, 2023. 50 Studies Every Occupational Therapist Should Know is the first book of its kind in occupational therapy (OT). It is an excellent resource for healthcare students and practitioners seeking to gain a better understanding of the breadth and depth of the field and covers a wide range of topics within six key practice areas in OT: productive aging, health and wellness, work and industry, rehabilitation and disability, children and youth, and mental health. As the only book that summarizes OT research in an accessible, user-friendly manner, this work is a must-read for everyone interested in better understanding the evidence informing occupational therapy practice. International Handbook of
