Neuroscience contributes to the basic understanding of the neural mechanisms underlying human development and learning Educational neuroscience is an interdisciplinary research field that seeks to translate research findings on neural mechanisms of learning to educational practice and policy and to understand the effects of education on the brain It is an emerging multidisciplinary field where the aim is to link basic research in neuroscience psychology and cognitive science with educational technology Educational neuroscience is often associated with the science of learning and encompasses a broad range of scientific disciplines from basic neuroscience to cognitive psychology to computer science to social theory It is an interdisciplinary research field that seeks to translate research findings on neural mechanisms of learning to educational practice and policy and to understand the effects of education on the brain Neuroscience research usually focuses only on learning but there is a developing subfield within neuroscience called Mind Brain and Education MBE that attempts to link research with teaching MBE researchers consider how to take advantage of the natural human attention span how to use studies about memory systems to inform lesson planning and how to use research on the role of emotions in learning In neuroscience research progress has been extraordinary including advances in both understanding and technology Scientists from a wide range of disciplines are being attracted to the challenge of understanding the brain In spite of discoveries regarding the structure of the brain we still do not understand how the nervous system allows us to see hear learn remember and plan certain actions Educators and schools around the globe are increasingly relying on the knowledge techniques and programs developed based on a new understanding of how our brains work This knowledge is being applied to the classroom A growing amount of attention is being paid to neuroscience and how the results of empirical research may be used to help individuals learn more effectively In this Research Topic academic scientists researchers and scholars will share their experiences and research results on all aspects of brain based learning and educational neuroscience Furthermore it provides a premier interdisciplinary platform for researchers practitioners and educators to present the latest developments trends and concerns In addition it discusses practical challenges encountered and solutions adopted in the field of Educational Neuroscience The focus of this Research Topic is to bring together academic scientists researchers and scholars to exchange and share their experiences and research findings related to brain based learning and educational neuroscience Researchers practitioners and educators will also be able to present and discuss the newest innovations trends and concerns This will include practical challenges encountered and solutions adopted in Educational Neuroscience as well as in related fields All original and unpublished papers describing conceptual constructive empirical experimental or theoretical work in any area of Brain Based Learning and Educational Neuroscience or studies that explore the intersections between neuroscience psychology and education are highly encouraged Aspects topics and critical issues of interest include but are not limited to neuroscience applications in enhanced learning how students learn mathematics and language personal motivation social and emotional learning motivation the biology of learning brain functions and information processing and many others Neuroscience, Learning and Educational Psychology María Jesús Luque Rojas, Eduardo Blanco Calvo, María Teresa Martín-Aragoneses, 2022-08-25

Improving Inclusive Education through Universal Design for Learning Alvyra Galkiene, Ona Monkeviciene, 2021-09-10 This open access international scientific study provides an analysis of how the educational strategy of Universal Design for Learning can stimulate the process of inclusive education in different educational cultural contexts and different areas of the educational system The findings of the research deepen the conception of inclusive education and present an analysis of factors that are significant for developing the educational system as well as providing evidence based recommendations for educational practice The research for this work was done in four European countries with various historical cultural contexts Lithuania and Poland underwent a transformation of the educational systems at the turning point in their political system shifting from a strictly centralized Soviet policy to a liberal and democratic education system Austria has experienced changes in social stratification and a need for cultural harmonisation arising from active national migration processes whereas Finland has been gradually developing a socio democratic model of national welfare The analysis of the educational processes in the four countries has been performed using a qualitative action research method The researchers in cooperation with the teachers from the selected schools in their country have implemented the strategy of Universal Design for Learning and assessed its transformation indicators in terms of the quality of inclusive education components

Educational Neuroscience Michael S. C. Thomas, Denis Mareschal, Iroise Dumontheil, 2020-03-31 The field of educational

neuroscience uses new insights about the neural mechanisms of learning to improve educational practices and outcomes. The first volume to bring together the latest knowledge on the development of educational neuroscience from a life span perspective this important text offers state of the art authoritative research findings in educational neuroscience before providing evidence based recommendations for classroom practice. Thomas Mareschal Dumontheil and the team of expert international contributors assembled in this volume thoroughly explore four main themes throughout the book. The first theme is individual differences or what makes children perform better or worse in the classroom. The second theme is the nature of individual differences at different stages in development from early years into adulthood. The third theme addresses cognitive enhancement summarizing research that has investigated activities that might give general benefits to cognition. And the fourth theme considers the translation of research findings into classroom practices discussing broader ethical issues raised by educational neuroscience and what teachers need to know about neuroscience to enhance their day to day practice. Specific topics explored include neuropsychological perspectives on socioeconomic disparities in educational achievement reading difficulties phonological skills executive function and emotional development. Educational Neuroscience is essential reading for researchers and graduate students of educational psychology developmental science developmental psychology and cognitive psychology especially those specializing in emotion regulation. Human Behavior, Learning, and the Developing Brain Donna Coch, Geraldine Dawson, Kurt W. Nelson, Kathleen M. Thomas, Michelle D. H. de Haan, 2012-06-26. A new understanding of cognitive development from the perspective of neuroscience. This book provides a state of the art understanding of the neural bases of cognitive development. Although the field of developmental cognitive neuroscience is still in its infancy the authors effectively demonstrate that our understanding of cognitive development is and will be vastly improved as the mechanisms underlying development are elucidated. The authors begin by establishing the value of considering neuroscience in order to understand child development and then provide an overview of brain development. They include a critical discussion of experience dependent changes in the brain. The authors explore whether the mechanisms underlying developmental plasticity differ from those underlying adult plasticity and more fundamentally what distinguishes plasticity from development. Having armed the reader with key neuroscience basics the book begins its examination of the neural bases of cognitive development by examining the methods employed by professionals in developmental cognitive neuroscience. Following a brief historical overview the authors discuss behavioral anatomic metabolic and electrophysiological methods Finally the book explores specific content areas focusing on those areas where there is a significant body of knowledge on the neural underpinnings of cognitive development including Declarative and non declarative memory and learning Spatial cognition Object recognition Social cognition Speech and language development Attention development For cognitive and developmental psychologists as well as students in developmental psychology neuroscience and cognitive development the authors view of behavioral development from the perspective of neuroscience sheds new light on the mechanisms that underlie how the brain functions and how a child learns and behaves

The Learning Brain Torkel Klingberg,2012-11-02 All learning takes place in the brain and the key to a child's development is how its brain matures But how can we take the step from knowledge of neurons to education What is the cause of inattention dyslexia or dyscalculia How does brain maturation affect teenage behavior These are all important questions to ask as many statistics suggest that levels of knowledge in children have stagnated and in some cases receded Drawing from his and others research and in certain cases stories and examples Torkel Klingberg a leading cognitive neuroscientist shows how the brain is affected by genes stress physical exercise and parental relationships The result of his research The Learning Brain demonstrates how we can give our children and teenagers the best opportunities to learn and develop
