Stigma Doctor Imogen Tyler, 2020-04-15 Stigma is a corrosive social force by which individuals and communities throughout history have been systematically dehumanised scapegoated and oppressed From the literal stigmatizing tattooing of criminals in ancient Greece to modern day discrimination against Muslims refugees and the undeserving poor stigma has long been a means of securing the interests of powerful elites In this radical reconceptualisation Tyler precisely and passionately outlines the political function of stigma as an instrument of state coercion Through an original social and economic reframing of the history of stigma Tyler reveals stigma as a political practice illuminating previously forgotten histories of resistance against stigmatization boldly arguing that these histories provide invaluable insights for understanding the rise of authoritarian forms of government today

Spectres from the Past Portia Owusu, 2019-11-22 Spectres from the Past The History of Slavery in West African and African American Narratives examines the merit of the claim that West African writers in comparison to African Americans authors deliberately expunge the history of slavery from literary narratives The book explores slavery in contemporary West African and African American literature by looking at the politics of history and memory It interrogates notions of History and memory by considering the possibility that shared traumas such as West African and African American experiences of slavery can be remembered and historicised differently according to critical factors such as socio economic realities cultural beliefs and familial traditions At the heart of the book are compelling and new readings of slavery in six literary narratives that draws on cultural philosophies musicology and linguistics to demonstrate diverse and unusual ways that Black writers in West Africa and North America write about slavery in literature
