New Horizons in Health National Research Council, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Behavioral, Cognitive, and Sensory Sciences, Committee on Future Directions for Behavioral and Social Sciences Research at the National Institutes of Health, 2001-02-09 New Horizons in Health discusses how the National Institutes of Health NIH can integrate research in the social behavioral and biomedical sciences to better understand the causes of disease as well as interventions that promote health. It outlines a set of research priorities for consideration by the Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research OBSSR with particular attention to research that can support and complement the work of the National Institutes of Health. By addressing the range of interactions among social settings, behavioral patterns and important health concerns, it highlights areas of scientific opportunity where significant investment is most likely to improve national and global health outcomes. These opportunities will apply the knowledge and methods of the behavioral and social sciences to contemporary health needs and give attention to the chief health concerns of the general public

A New Horizon on Medical Physics and Biomedical Engineering Hiroshi Abe, 1991 Advanced technologies in medicine e.g. computed tomography, echo doppler, diagnostic devices, radionuclear medicine and radiation therapy have produced a complete change in medical practice taking us from passive patient care to active treatment capable of challenging incurable diseases. The concept of disease on the patient side has also been altered from one being passively recognized to one that may be actively cured. Within the present rapidly evolving situation, the publication of the current topics in medical physics and medical and biological engineering is very timely for scientists interested in this field. This book consists of the manuscripts of the tutorial session in the World Congress on Medical Physics and Biomedical Engineering. All the contributors are acknowledged world class specialists. Important topics were selected by the Scientific Program Committee according to the theme of the Congress: Frontiers of Medicine and Health Care: Important Issues for the Next Millennium
