Media Convergence Networked Digital Media In Everyday Life:

Media Convergence Graham Meikle, Sherman Young, 2012 This book focuses on how everyday media such as Facebook, iTunes and Google can be understood in new ways for the 21st century through ideas of convergence. Key chapters explore the development of the internet, the rise of social media and the new opportunities for audiences to create, collaborate upon and share their own media.

The Digital Media Handbook Andrew Dewdney, Peter Ride, 2013-10-30 The new edition of The Digital Media Handbook presents an essential guide to the historical and theoretical development of digital media, emphasising cultural continuity alongside technological change and highlighting the emergence of new forms of communication in contemporary networked culture. Andrew Dewdney and Peter Ride present detailed critical commentary and descriptive historical accounts as well as a series of interviews from a range of digital media practitioners including producers, developers, curators and artists. The Digital Media Handbook highlights key concerns of today's practitioners analysing how they develop projects, interact and solve problems within the context of networked communication. The Digital Media Handbook includes Essays on the history and theory of digital media, Essays on contemporary issues and debates, Interviews with digital media professionals, A glossary of technical acronyms and key terms.

Intelligent Networks Vivek Kumar Singh, Anil Kumar Sagar, Parma Nand, Rani Astya, Omprakash Kaiwartya, 2024-12-12 The book presents the latest developments in intelligent communication networks based on applicability from various domains of artificial intelligence and machine learning including channel modeling, model based structure, channel prediction and signal detection. It further explains important topics such as vehicular mobility modeling, human centric network applications, security and privacy in social networks, and trust based intelligent transportation systems. This book presents a model based approach to constructing an effective network by using state of the art artificial intelligent techniques. Discusses the theoretical and practical applications of channel prediction and signal detection. Introduces the fundamental concepts and application of vehicular networks in conjunction with artificial intelligence. Explores wireless communication network techniques enabled by human centric applications designed and developed with artificial intelligence characteristics. Highlights the challenges in designing and developing an effective and intelligent communication network that can be applied in different domains of human activities for finding sustainable solutions. It is primarily written for senior undergraduate, graduate students and academic researchers in the fields of electrical engineering, electronics and communications engineering, computer engineering and information technology.

Descriptive Adaptation Studies Patrick Cattrysse, 2014-02-18 It is common practice nowadays for adaptation critics to denounce the lack of meta theoretical thinking in adaptation studies and to plead for a study of adaptation as adaptation one that eschews value judgments, steps beyond normative fidelity based discourse, examines adaptation from an intertextual perspective and abandons the single source model for a multiple source model. This study looks into a research program that does all that and more. It was developed in the late 1980s and presented in the early 1990s as a polysystem PS study of adaptations. Since then the PS label has been replaced with descriptive. This book studies the question of whether and how a PS approach could evolve into a descriptive adaptation studies DAS approach. Although not perfect no method is DAS offers a number of assets. Apart from dealing with the above mentioned issues DAS transcends an Auteurist approach and looks at explanation beyond the level of individual agency even if contextualized. As an alternative to the endless accumulation of ad hoc case studies it suggests corpus based research into wider trends of adaptational behavior and the roles and functions of sets of adaptations. DAS also allows reflection upon its own epistemic values. It sheds new light on some old issues. How can one define adaptation? What does it mean to study adaptation as adaptation? Is equivalence still possible and is the concept still relevant? DAS also tackles some deeper epistemological issues. How can phenomena be compared? Why would difference be more real than sameness or change more real than stasis? How does description relate to evaluation explanation and prediction etc? This book addresses both theory minded scholars who are interested in epistemological reflection and practice oriented adaptation students who want to get started. From a theoretical point of view it discusses arguments that could support the legitimacy of adaptation studies as an academic discipline. From a practical point of view it explains in general terms ways of conducting an adaptation study. Patrick Cattrysse's work is of utmost importance to Adaptation Studies. As the first extended attempt to develop a rigorous methodology which borrows in very meaningful ways from Adaptation Studies' cousin Translation Studies this book should be on every Adaptation scholar's shelf. While Hutcheons, Sanders and Leitch to name but a few, laid the groundwork which allowed Adaptation Studies to establish itself as a field of inquiry in its own right, Cattrysse moves the field into the next necessary stage that of developing conceptual tools which stand the test of critical investigation and allow Adaptation Studies to move beyond the single case study approach. Katja Krebs (University of Bristol) This book is a bold initiative, it proposes and illustrates a comprehensive new empirical research programme for film adaptation studies inspired by the way systems theory and norm theory have expanded Translation Studies. One of the book's unusual strengths is the way the proposal is grounded in a thoughtful theoretical discussion of conceptual and methodological issues dealing with such notions as theory, descriptivism, definition, diachrony and explanation. This gives the work a significance that ranges well beyond Adaptation Studies alone; it deserves the attention of scholars in the humanities in general. Andrew Chesterman (University of Helsinki) This dense and theoretically informed study argues forcefully for a descriptive systems analysis approach to literature/film adaptation building on the author's earlier corpus based study of film noir and adaptation. Providing a wide ranging discussion of important critical questions including the place of logical positivism in humanistic studies this book will give adaptation scholars much to think about. Well written, carefully organized and consistently persuasive DESCRIPTIVE ADAPTATION STUDIES promises to be an important intervention in a field of increasing importance in humanistic studies. Must reading for scholars in the field. R

Barton Palmer Clemson University     The Tech-Media Hybrid Qun Wang,2025-12-23 Google is typically thought of as a tech giant and the world's largest search engine but it was also among the first tech companies to invest in news. After 9/11 the company recognized the economic and social value of up-to-the-minute information and began to incorporate news into its business. Google News built on automation algorithms aggregation and the unbundling and rebundling of news and Google's other news-related initiatives went on to play a major role in shaping the information ecosystem of the twenty-first century. In The Tech Media Hybrid Qun Wang examines Google's engagement with news across more than two decades tracing the company's complicated relationship with the news industry. She shows how Google developed a push and pull relationship with the media sector boosting its visibility while also competing against it and establishing new norms. What the company calls the Google way of experiencing news has exerted a profound influence on traditional media. Google's news ambitions in turn have been shaped by the global news industry's actions and reactions at every step. Shedding new light on the vast transformations of the past quarter century this multimethod interdisciplinary book also offers insight into how the news environment might evolve in the era of AI.

Information Technology Law Andrew Murray,2016 Information Technology Law is the ideal companion for a course of study on IT law and the ways in which it is evolving in response to rapid technological and social change. The third edition of this ground-breaking textbook develops its unique examination of the legal processes and their relationship to the modern information society. Charting the development of the rapid digitization of society and its impact on established legal principles, Murray examines the challenges faced with enthusiasm and clarity. Following a clearly defined part structure the text begins by defining the information society and discussing how it may be regulated before moving on to explore issues of internet governance, privacy and surveillance, intellectual property and rights and commerce within the digital sphere. Comprehensive and engaging Information Technology Law takes an original and thought-provoking approach to examining this fast-moving area of law in context. Online Resource Centre. The third edition is supported by a range of online resources including: An additional chapter on Virtual Environments; Audio podcasts suitable for revision; Updates to the law post-publication; A flashcard glossary of key terms and concepts; Outline answers to end-of-chapter questions; A link to the author's blog; The IT Lawyer Web links.

Media Convergence Dwyer, Tim,2010-02-01 Media studies scholars and commentators have categorised the media in distinct periods: old media such as television, radio and print; new media which include online media, computers and PDAs. Now we are in a period of media convergence: print newspapers sent as MP3 but also the increasing convergence of media policy, media ownership and media practices. This book looks at how traditional media companies are moving into converged media: questions of ownership, questions of working practices and questions of the audience.

Understanding Engagement in Transmedia Culture Elizabeth Evans,2019-11-15 This book offers a new interdisciplinary model for understanding audience engagement as a type of behaviour: a form of response and a cost to audiences that combined offer value to the screen industries. Audience engagement has become the key priority of the screen industries Understanding Engagement in Transmedia Culture explicitly asks what audiences and screen practitioners mean when they say content is engaging and uses audience focus groups and practitioner interviews to offer a model for understanding the relationship between the screen industry the content it produces and its audiences In particular the model addresses engagement within transmedia culture As digital screen technologies proliferate audiences move seamlessly across and between different devices content formats and distribution platforms blurring the boundaries between film television and videogames This book offers a way of understanding audience engagement that is not restricted to a single media but instead accounts for and adapts to the various ways in which screen content is experienced Offering a unique approach by presenting practitioner and audience perspectives it is perfect for students and scholars working in film and television studies as well as media industries and audience studies Communication Yearbook 40 Elisia L. Cohen,2016-05-05 Communication Yearbook 40 completes four decades of publishing state of the discipline literature reviews and essays In the final Communication Yearbook volume editor Elisia L Cohen includes chapters representing international and interdisciplinary scholarship demonstrating the broad global interests of the International Communication Association The contents include summaries of communication research programs that represent the most innovative work currently Emphasizing timely disciplinary concerns and enduring theoretical questions this volume will be valuable to scholars throughout the communication discipline and beyond The New Media Handbook Andrew Dewdney,Peter Ride,2006-09-08 Through a series of interviews with media practitioners including web developers programmers artists writers and producers this book examines the diversity of media It focuses upon the key concerns of practitioners and how they create their work and develop their projects and is useful for students of the media Children and Youth in the Digital Media Culture Ulla Carlsson,2010 The present Yearbook showcases the Nordic countries and the work being done in the research communities of Denmark Finland Iceland Norway and Sweden The focus rests on children youth and media in a digitized media culture Book jacket Converging Media John Vernon Pavlik,Shawn McIntosh,2004 Converging Media reflects the fundamental changes that digital technologies have made in the way people get their news and entertainment and conduct media commerce The book does not contend that every media product such as newspapers magazines or books are or ever will become digital Rather Converging Media proposes that the majority of the process of mass communication is or is becoming digital Publisher description Participation and Media Production Nico Carpentier,Benjamin De Cleen,2008 In an era when especially new media are celebrated for their participatory potential questions about the nature and intensity of these participatory processes seem to be superfluous But raising these questions pushes us into a critical mode towards the changes that have lead to the present day media landscape This volume TM s authors aim to activate this critical mode and reflect on the participatory nature of contemporary media organizations and products In order to stand even a remote chance to realize this objective and to critically unravel the societal role of participation we need to acknowledge that participation is a complex and contested notion covering a wide variety of meanings and practices that are converging into a hybrid of technologies genres and formats At the same time prudence is required as many of the empowering and transformative opportunities cover up a multitude of restrictions that deal with muting voices appropriations techniques of surveillance inequalities and exclusions This volume thus provides its readership with a set of analyses that reconcile the appreciation for the analogue and digital empowerment and emancipation with the critical analysis of their boundaries Participation and Media Production is the result of the intellectual work of the participants of the 2007 San Francisco Conference of the International Communication Association ICA
