Roger Jones (Prof.)

Palliative Care In General Practice:

Oxford Textbook of Palliative Medicine Geoffrey W. C. Hanks, 2011-07-21 Emphasising the multi disciplinary nature of palliative care the fourth edition of this text also looks at the individual professional roles that contribute to the best quality palliative care

Palliative Care in Clinical Practice Giovambattista Zeppetella, 2012-06-14 When a person suffers from advanced progressive illness palliative care treatments that improve the physical and psychological quality of life of patients and their families can be just as important as treatments that aim to slow or prevent disease progression Aimed at GPs and trainees Palliative Care in Clinical Practice offers an accessible and practical introduction to palliative medicine including a chapter devoted to each of the key areas of symptom management Clearly and concisely written and fully illustrated throughout it will be a useful resource for all healthcare professionals who wish to gain an understanding of this important aspect of medicine

Oxford Textbook of Palliative Medicine Nathan I. Cherny, Marie Fallon, Stein Kaasa, Russell K. Portenoy, David Currow, 2015 Emphasising the multi disciplinary nature of palliative care the fourth edition of this text also looks at the individual professional roles that contribute to the best quality palliative care

Evaluation of Palliative Care in a Danish General Practice Anne Mette Larsen, 2017 Background Most terminally ill patients wish to die at home and this requires specific competences in end of life care amongst general practitioners Aim The aim of the study was to quantify and evaluate the palliative trajectories in a Danish general practice that has systematically followed patients with palliative needs over the last five years Hypothesis Number of home deaths including nursing homes over a three year period was expected to be larger than the national average from 2016 49% Methods All patients affiliated with a large approx 6500 patients Danish 4 doctor general practice located in a Copenhagen suburb who died between 1 1 2015 and 31 7 2018 were identified Patients without available relevant information from the medical record and patients who died by accident or suicide were excluded The following variables were extracted from the patient files age gender diagnosis place of death preferred and actual number and type of clinical contacts consultation phone e mail during the last four months of life the use of palliative medication and subcutaneous needle and any specialised palliative care The study has been approved by the Danish patient safety committee j nr 3 3013 2592 1 Results 180 patients were included in the study The mean age at time of death was 76 5 years and 99 56% were women Nine ty patients 50% died at home or at a nursing home 77 patients 43% died at a hospital Two sample test of proportions showed no significant difference p 0 05 in home death as compared to the national 2016 data Conclusion The number of home deaths in the study population 50% was not significantly different from the national average 49% The reason for no change in home death rate may be due to a different distribution of important variables in the study population This will be further explored in the final results presented at the 2019 EAPC congress Funding The study has not received any funding

Palliative Care Geoff Mitchell, 2016-07-06 Series Editors Moira Stewart Judith Belle Brown and Thomas R Freeman As the population in western cultures ages more people suffer chronic ultimately life limiting diseases and medical professionals need to be equipped to cope with the ever growing pressure of palliative care This book gives guidance on how to approach patients with life limiting illness While the problems most people present to the doctor appear relatively straightforward a whole person approach to understanding the complex interaction between the person their illness and their environment should lead to a more complete consideration of the illness and better health outcomes For issues of palliative care such an approach is essential to identify and meet the many needs of desperately ill people Palliative Care offers a fresh look at the management of patients With international evidence based contributions the book suggests practical and challenging ways to care for the dying It is ideal for all healthcare professionals working in palliative care General Practitioners and medicine and healthcare students Journal of Palliative Care ,2004 Oxford Textbook of Primary Medical Care Roger Jones (Prof.),2005 EBOOK Clinical Cases for General Practice Exams WEARNE,2019-09-02 EBOOK Clinical Cases for General Practice Exams Teamwork in Palliative Care Robin Hull,Mary Ellis,Vicki Sargent,1989 International Journal of Palliative Nursing ,2001 Professional Education for General Practice Peter Havelock,1995 Vocational training for general practice has been tremendously successful over the past two decades but the need became apparent at the beginning of the 1990s for revision of the education of GP trainers already experienced in setting up a training practice who were demanding a fresh more detailed consideration of the educational aspects of vocational training The authors of Professional Education for General Practice comprise general practitioners from training practices regional advisers in primary care and an expert in adult education They describe the history of vocational training and examine the educational requirements of adult learners then go on to discuss particular aspects of curriculum design assessment teaching methods trainer trainee relationships and evaluation followed by an appraisal of what changes are needed in training for general practice in the future Throughout the preparation of the book the authors worked closely with general practice trainers and trainees as well as their educators thus ensuring that the book is completely appropriate for these groups This book is essential for everyone involved in teaching GP trainers as well as for the trainers themselves and will be of interest to doctors training in primary care Reflections on Palliative Care David Clark,Jane Seymour,1999 Palliative care seems set to continue its rapid development into the early years of the 21st century From its origins in the modern hospice movement the new multidisciplinary specialty of palliative care has expanded into a variety of settings Palliative care services are now being provided in the home in hospital and in nursing homes There are moves to extend palliative care beyond its traditional constituency of people with cancer Efforts are being made to provide a wide range of palliative therapies to patients at an early stage of their disease progression The evidence base of palliative care is growing with more research evaluation and audit along with specialist programmes of education Palliative care appears to be coming of age On the other hand numbers of challenges still exist Much service development has been unplanned and unregulated Palliative care providers must continue to adapt to changing patterns of commissioning and funding services The voluntary hospice movement may feel its values threatened by a new professionalism and policies which require its greater integration within mainstream services There are concerns about the re medicalization of palliative care about how an evidence based approach to practice can be developed and about the extent to which its methods are transferring across diseases and settings Beyond these preoccupations lie wider societal issues about the organization of death and dying in late modern culture To what extent have notions of death as a contemporary taboo been superseded How can we characterize the nature of suffering What factors are involved in the debate surrounding end of life care ethics and euthanasia David Clark and Jane Seymour drawing on a wide range of sources as well as their own empirical studies offer a set of reflections on the development of palliative care and its place within a wider social context Their book will be essential reading to any practitioner policy maker teacher or student involved in palliative care or concerned about death dying and life limiting illness

Research Methods and Audit in General Practice David Armstrong, John Grace, 1994 Many of those working in primary care wish to conduct research in their own practice but lack the confidence and knowledge needed to set up manage and publish a research project The authors of this book who have wide experience of carrying out research in the general practice setting have developed this book as a practical resource for research in primary care This superbly written book will guide all members of the primary care team through the research process from the initial idea through project design and write up to final publication It explains clearly the purpose and implementation of the clinical epidemiological and social research techniques that will be the most useful and includes practical questions and exercises to ensure that the significance of each technique has been fully understood The second edition of this successful book has been fully updated and revised throughout and has new chapters covering audit and use of the Epi Info data analysis facility for exploring general practice data

Palliative care in general practice K. W. Schuit, 1999

Domiciliary Palliative Care Derek Doyle, 1994 Derek Doyle's name is known to everyone involved in palliative care not just through his clinical skills and long term commitment to the field but also as a brilliant communicator and educator Domiciliary Palliative Care is a practical handbook for everybody who cares for people with far advanced disease in the community It includes every new treatment as well as a unique insight into the development of the modern hospice movement It provides health care workers with practical advice on how to control pain effectively how to help patients recognize and fulfill their physical emotional and spiritual needs and how to help support their families Everyone involved in health care provision in the community will at some time become involved with the care of the terminally ill This book is written for them providing uniquely comprehensive compassionate and insightful guidelines to allow the reader to deal with this potentially harrowing area with confidence and sensitivity

Palliative Care for

Non-cancer Patients Julia M. Addington-Hall,Irene Higginson,2001 The specialty of palliative care has traditionally grown out of oncology and there has been little research into the needs of patients dying from causes other than cancer Few non cancer patients receive hospice in patient home care or day care although a good proportion of hospices say that their services are available to non cancer patients As a result the importance of palliative care for non cancer patients is now being increasingly recognized internationally and in the UK a committee reporting to the Department of Health recommended that palliative care should be accessible to all patients who need such care Palliative Care for Non Cancer Patients considers the needs and experiences of patients dying from for example stroke heart disease or dementia by drawing on a range of disciplines and specialties in medicine The provision of palliative care for patients dying from causes other than cancer raises a number of important questions for policy makers and purchasers This book summarizes what is known about the needs of and appropriate service provision for people dying of causes other than cancer and begins to set a research agenda

Collaborative Practice in Palliative Care Dave Roberts,Laura Green,2021-09-20 Collaborative Practice in Palliative Care explores how different professions work collaboratively across professional institutional social and cultural boundaries to enhance palliative care Analysing palliative care as an interaction between different professionals clients and carers and the social context or community within which the interaction takes place it is grounded in up to date evidence includes global aspects of palliative care and cultural diversity as themes running throughout the book and is replete with examples of good and innovative practice Drawing on experiences from within traditional specialist palliative care settings like hospices and community palliative care services as well as more generalist contexts of the general hospital and primary care this practical text highlights the social or public health model of palliative care Designed to support active learning it includes features such as case studies summaries and pointers to other learning resources This text is an important reference for all professionals engaged in palliative care particularly those studying for post qualification programmes in the area
