I was counting down the seconds as I watched the clock. I didn't even hear what the teacher was saying. All I knew was I was ready to leave. It was Friday. I heard some chatter in the background, but I didn't listen. All I could think about was how good the food would be that night. I would order a thick juicy hamburger and some fries with extra ketchup. All of the waiters loved me at Jake's Hamburger. Stop. My parents had promised to take me there. Finally, the bell rang. I jumped up and ran to my locker. A lot of papers flew out. I just stuffed them back in, grabbed my things, and ran down the hallway. "Sarah," I heard my teacher call, "Don't forget about," as I ran out of the door. On Monday, I was back at school. "Oh, no, we are having a test," I thought. How could I have known? The teacher handed out the tests. I didn't know any of the answers to the multiplication or division problems.

1. Where was I when I was watching the clock?

2. Where were my parents taking me that night?

3. What was Sarah's teacher probably trying to tell her?

4. Do you think Sarah did well on the test? Why or why not?

5. What class was Sarah probably in when she was watching the clock?

Silvern, Thomas G. Sticht, 1983 Reading Research Quarterly, 1983 The effect of hearing loss on neural processing Jonathan E. Peelle, Arthur Wingfield, 2015-06-03 Efficient auditory processing requires the rapid integration of transient sensory inputs. This is exemplified in human speech perception in which long stretches of a complex acoustic signal are typically processed accurately and essentially in real time. Spoken language thus presents listeners' auditory systems with a considerable challenge even when acoustic input is clear. However, auditory processing ability is frequently compromised due to congenital or acquired hearing loss or altered through background noise or assistive devices such as cochlear implants. How does loss of sensory fidelity impact neural processing efficiency and health? How does this ultimately influence behavior? This Research Topic explores the neural consequences of hearing loss including basic processing carried out in the auditory periphery computations in subcortical nuclei and primary auditory cortex and higher level cognitive processes such as those involved in human speech perception By pulling together data from a variety of disciplines and perspectives we gain a more complete picture of the acute and chronic consequences of hearing loss for neural functioning
