ROSENBERG AT T Labs Middletown NJ 07748 USA email eric rosenberg att com Abstract This paper documents a model that was pivotal in deciding which of two architectures should be selected for a frame relay data communications network The choices are either to continue using the current architecture or to make a large incremental investment in new equipment which reduces the number of high speed inter office trunks required to interconnect the switches The analysis requires optimizing the mix of two types of customer port cards to determine the maximum customer port capacity of a switch Simple approximations are used to estimate the number of inter office trunks and trunk cards required Based in large part on the costs computed by this model an executive level decision was made to move to the new architecture Key Words data communications network architecture network design frame relay virtual circuits economic analysis 1 Introduction To design a data communications network it is necessary to consider a variety of factors The Help Yourself Love Yourself Nondiet Weight Loss Plan Joel C. Robertson,1993 A new way to lose weight by controlling your brain s need for food This revolutionary individualized program for losing weight is tailored to your brain chemistry and lets you eat to feel good while losing weight Robertson outlines the diet that is right for your brain and suggest strategies for keeping your weight at a healthy level permanently Updating Standard Cost Systems Carole B. Cheatham,Leo R. Cheatham,1993-03-24 The new manufacturing environment requires new cost accounting systems as well as new technology While some authorities have advocated installing new and untried systems the authors of this book recommend updating the standard cost system which 85 percent of manufacturing firms have in place Updating the present system can achieve greater benefits in terms of providing information to managers for decision making It also allows the organization to avoid disruption to the corporate culture and the cost associated with a new system The authors show how standard cost systems can be redesigned to measure factors recognized to be important in today s manufacturing environment such as quality production levels and throughput They demonstrate how standard cost systems can foster continuous improvement through dynamic rather than static standards After examining characteristics of the new manufacturing environment and benefits of upgrading the cost system ways to update the traditional standard cost system are discussed Revisions include a unique input output method of variance analysis specific metrics related to manufacturing performance ways to identify cost drivers and use of dynamic standards The authors demonstrate how to redesign the information gathering and reporting system as new manufacturing procedures are put in place They discuss ways that marketing activities are affected and how to plan plant and equipment expenditures in an automated environment This book is directed primarily towards accountants and managers needing to improve informational content of accounting data for decision making purposes It should also be beneficial to any person within the business firm who either supplies data of this type or uses it such as project analysts controllers managers and even management trainees Academicians teaching cost and managerial accounting as well as those teaching production management and financial decision making courses should find it beneficial as a text supplement or as a primary text in Statistics provides practical guidelines for conducting numerous types of multivariate statistical analyses. It gives syntax and output for accomplishing many analyses through the most recent releases of SAS, SPSS and SYSTAT, some not available in software manuals. The book maintains its practical approach still focusing on the benefits and limitations of applications of a technique to a data set when why and how to do it. Overall it provides advanced students with a timely and comprehensive introduction to today's most commonly encountered statistical and multivariate techniques while assuming only a limited knowledge of higher level mathematics.
