Mekong Socio Legal Development Earthscan Management:

The Mekong: A Socio-legal Approach to River Basin Development Ben Boer, Philip Hirsch, Fleur Johns, Ben Saul, Natalia Scurrah, 2015-12-22 An international river basin is an ecological system an economic thoroughfare a geographical area a font of life and livelihoods a geopolitical network and often a cultural icon It is also a socio legal phenomenon This book is the first detailed study of an international river basin from a socio legal perspective The Mekong River Basin which sustains approximately 70 million people across Cambodia China Laos Myanmar Thailand and Vietnam provides a prime example of the socio legal complexities of governing a transboundary river and its tributaries The book applies its socio legal analysis to bring a fresh approach to understanding conflicts surrounding water governance in the Mekong River Basin The authors describe the wide range of uses being made of legal doctrine and legal argument in ongoing disputes surrounding hydropower development in the Basin putting to rest lingering caricatures of a single ASEAN way of navigating conflict They call into question some of the common assumptions concerning the relationship between law and development The book also sheds light on important questions concerning the global hybridization or crossover of public and private power and its ramifications for water governance With current debates and looming conflicts over water governance globally and over shared rivers in particular these issues could not be more pressing

Trans-jurisdictional Water Law and Governance Janice Gray, Cameron Holley, Rosemary Rayfuse, 2016-06-23 Governance of global water resources presents one of the most confounding challenges in contemporary natural resource governance With considerable government citizen and financial donor attention devoted to a range of international transnational and domestic laws and policies aimed at protecting managing and sustainably using fresh and coastal marine water resources this book proposes that sustainable water outcomes require a trans jurisdictional approach to water governance Focusing on the concept of trans jurisdictional water governance the book diagnoses barriers and identifies pathways to coherent and coordinated institutional arrangements between and across different bodies of laws at local national regional and international levels It includes case studies from the European Union Australia New Zealand South Africa the United States and Southeast Asia Leading specialists offer insights into the pretence and the promise of trans jurisdictional water governance and provide readers including students practitioners policy makers and academics with a basis for better analysing articulating and synthesising standards of good trans jurisdictional water governance both in theory and in practice

Land and Hydropolitics in the Nile River Basin Emil Sandstrom, Anders Jagerskog, Terje Oestigaard, 2016-08-05 The Nile River Basin supports the livelihoods of millions of people in Egypt Ethiopia Sudan and Uganda principally as water for agriculture and hydropower The resource is the focus of much contested development not only between upstream and downstream neighbours but also from countries outside the region This book investigates the water land and energy nexus in the Nile Basin It explains how the current surge in land and energy investments both by foreign actors as well as domestic investors affects already strained transboundary relations in the region and how investments are intertwined within wider contexts of Nile Basin history politics and economy Overall the book presents a range of perspectives drawing on political science international relations theory sociology history and political ecology
