After the success of her first book, Play continued to write four others including Discover the Power of Play, Play and Learn in the Classroom (2009) for primary school teachers and Play and Learn in the Classroom (2010) for primary school students. Play continued to research when she returned to Flinders University, this time as an Associate Professor of Literacy Studies. She remained at this job for 20 years where she focused her research for developing adults and developing a theory of literature for life of research and her research has focused on an educational literacy education, reading instruction and presentations on the importance of literature in the lives of children. She has spent her time teaching parents about the importance of reading to their children as a way of developing a lifelong love with books. When reading and presenting her research for children's literature, Play continued to write. In fact, she released four new books in 2012 and presented these at the book fair in the following year.

Mem Fox

Early Life

Mem Fox, one of Australia's most famous authors, was born in Melbourne in 1946. At the age of six months, her parents relocated to Africa where she spent the next eighteen years of her life. Growing up in Africa, Mem developed a love of writing. She recalls learning to write by tracing letters in the red dirt at school, making her own picture books at home with staples and sticky tape, as well as writing letters to her family back in Australia. Mem grew up in a house filled with books and says she was destined to love literature.

Early Career

At age 19, Mem moved to England for three years where she attended drama school. This experience helped develop Mem's understanding of literature as she studied poetry and performed classic Shakespearean plays. In 1970, after marrying her husband Malcolm Fox, Mem returned to Australia and gave birth to her daughter, Chloe Fox.

Success as an Author

In her early thirties, Mem attended Flinders University where she studied children's literature. Cherie loved books and Mem saw this as an opportunity to expand her own knowledge of children's literature so she could share them. She did not know that during this time of university, she would write the first draft of her most famous book, Matilda. Mem wrote the first draft of Matilda in her university dormitory, where she wrote the first draft of her most famous book, Matilda. The book was rejected nine times by publishers before it won the 1983 New Zealand Children's Book Award for Best Book.
