strengthening the links between coastal Carolina and Africa and examine the cost of a diminished recognition of this important Caribbean influence. Not surprisingly, the influence of the pioneering linguist Lorenzo Dow Turner is reflected in many of these essays. The work presented in this volume however moves beyond Turner in dealing with the discourse and stylistic aspects of Gullah in relating patterns of Gullah to other Anglophone creoles and to various processes of creolization and in questioning the usefulness of retention, survival and continuity as operational concepts in comparative research. Within this context of furthering and challenging Turner's work in the barrier islands and in seeking a truer measure of both African and Caribbean influences, there the contributors cover such topics as names and naming, the language of religious rituals, basket making traditions, creole discourse patterns and the grammatical morphology of Gullah and related creole and pidgin languages. Other contributors consider the substrate contributions and African continuities to be found in New World language patterns, into new patterns adapted to the various situations in the New World. Opening new and advancing previous areas of research, The Crucible of Carolina also contributes to a further appreciation of the richness and diversity of South Carolina's cultural heritage.
