Online Science Learning: Best Practices and Technologies Downing, Kevin, Holtz, Jennifer, 2008-05-31 The continued growth in general studies and liberal arts and science programs online has led to a rise in the number of students whose science learning experiences are web based However little is known about what is actually going on in web based science courses at the level of the disciplines within liberal arts and sciences or the corresponding course design features Online Science Learning Best Practices and Technologies reviews trends and efforts in web based science instruction and evaluates contemporary philosophies and pedagogies of online science instruction This title on an emergent and vital area of education clearly demonstrates how to enrich the academic character and quality of web based science instruction

Technologies in Biomedical and Life Sciences Education Harry J. Witchel, Michael W. Lee, 2022-06-24 This contributed volume focuses on understanding the educational strengths and weaknesses of mediated content including media as a learning supplement in comparison to traditional face to face learning Each chapter includes research on and a broad brush summary of approaches to combining life sciences education with educational technologies The chapters are organized into four main sections each of which focuses on a key question regarding the consequences of incorporating media into education In this regard the authors highlight how educational technology is both a bridge and barrier to student access and inclusivity Further they address the ongoing discussion as to whether students need to be present for lectures and on how having agency in their own learning can improve both retention and conceptual understanding To link the content to current events the authors also shed light on the impact that the COVID 19 pandemic is having on the continuity of educational programs and on the growing importance of educational technologies Consequently the book offers life science educators valuable guidance on the technologies already available and an outlook on what is yet to come Modern Research and

Roper, Jo Anne Boorkman, 1984 Science Communication on the Internet María-José Luzón, Carmen Pérez-Llantada, 2019-12-04 This book examines the expanding world of genres on the Internet to understand issues of science communication today The book explores how some traditional print genres have become digital how some genres have evolved into new digital hybrids and how and why new genres have emerged and are emerging in response to new rhetorical exigences and communicative demands Because social actions are in constant change and ensuing from this genres evolve faster than ever it is important to gain insight into the interrelations between old genres and new genres and the processes underpinning the construction of new genre sets chains and assemblages for communicating scientific research to both expert and diversified audiences In examining scientific genres on the Internet this book seeks to illustrate the increasing diversification of genre ecologies and their underlying social disciplinary and individual agendas The Literature of the Life Sciences David Abraham Kronick,1985 Doklady Earth Sciences ,2005 Educational Services in Health Sciences Libraries Francesca Allegri,1995-04-01 Emphasis in this volume is placed on principles of teaching and learning descriptions of print and nonprint instructional programs and materials administrative issues evaluation processes and procedures and trends affecting educational services Numerous examples are provided throughout particularly of computer based instructional systems In addition the volume assembles together topics scattered elsewhere the context and ethics of teaching in libraries authorship production and distribution of print and nonprint materials quality control and reward systems and applications and impact of new technologies This volume is relevant to any information professional interested in teaching users on site or remote from their parent institution The Eastern Africa Journal of Humanities & Sciences ,2003 Ulrich's Periodicals Directory 2003 Edgar H. Adcock (Jr.),2002 Seeing Nature Through Gender Virginia Scharff,2003 Environmental history has traditionally told the story of Man and Nature Scholars have too frequently overlooked the ways in which their predominantly male subjects have themselves been shaped by gender Seeing Nature through Gender here reintroduces gender as a meaningful category of analysis for environmental history showing how women s actions desires and choices have shaped the world and seeing men as gendered actors as well In thirteen essays that show how gendered ideas have shaped the ways in which people have represented experienced and consumed their world Virginia Scharff and her coauthors explore interactions between gender and environment in history Ranging from colonial borderlands to transnational boundaries from mountaintop to marketplace they focus on historical representations of humans and nature on questions about consumption on environmental politics and on the complex reciprocal relations among human bodies and changing landscapes They also challenge the ecofeminist position by challenging the notion that men and women are essentially different creatures with biologically different destinies Each article shows how a person or group of people in history have understood nature in gendered terms and acted accordingly often with dire consequences for other people and organisms Here are considerations of the ways we study sexuality among birds of William Byrd s masking sexual encounters in his account of an eighteenth century expedition of how the ecology of fire in a changing built environment has reshaped firefighters own gendered identities Some are playful as in a piece on the evolution of snow bunnies to shred betties Others are dead serious as in a chilling portrait of how endocrine disrupters are reinventing humans animals and water systems from the cellular level out Aiding and adding significantly to the enterprise of environmental history Seeing Nature through Gender bridges gender history and environmental history in unexpected ways to show us how the natural world can remake the gendered patterns we ve engraved on ourselves and on the planet Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences of the United States of America National Academy of Sciences (U.S.),2006 World Databases in
