Aurelius emperor of Rome from 161 to 180 AD Likely written during his years on various military campaigns across the empire they reflect his efforts to improve himself by fully assimilating the basic principles of Stoicism as put forth by Epictetus a Greek slave who became the greatest philosopher of his time To read the Meditations is to see how a practicing Stoic again and again will formulate for himself the central dogmas of Stoicism that everywhere and at all times it is in your power to accept your present condition reverently to behave justly to those around you and to exert your skill to control your thoughts that nothing shall steal into them without being well examined VII 54 The primary philosophical influence on Marcus Aurelius was Epictetus who set forth the basic principles and dogmas of Stoicism and advised practicing Stoics that these are the things that philosophers ought to study it is these that they should write about each day and it is in these that they should exercise themselves Discourses I 1 25 To read Marcus Aurelius s Meditations is to witness just such study and exercise We see the emperor formulating the same small set of principles rules and themes over and over again The basic Stoic principle The only good is virtue or moral good VIII 1 The three rules disciplines of judgment action and desire Your present judgment founded on understanding and your present conduct directed to social good and your present disposition of contentment with everything which happens that is enough IX 6 The various dogmas or themes Tranquility is nothing else than the good ordering of the mind IV 3 Men do wrong because of their ignorance of what is good and evil II 1 All things happen according to the universal nature a man s wrongful act is nothing to you everything which happens always happened so and will happen so and now happens so everywhere the close kinship between you and the whole human race is not of a little blood or seed but of intelligence every man s intelligence is a god and is an efflux of the deity nothing is a man s own but that his child and his body and his very soul came from the deity everything is judgment opinion every man lives the present time only and loses only this a list of eight dogmas all from XII 26 Marcus did what his philosophical master Epictetus called for practicing Stoics to do He formulated and reformulated just these principles and themes and the result of this practice of writing is his Meditations Read and imitate his practice If you do you too might have these reflections at hand by night and day Write them down read them talk about them both to yourself and to somebody else Discourses III 24 103

Meditations: with selected correspondence Robin Hard, 2011-09-15 Do not act as if you had ten thousand years to live while you have life in you while you still can make yourself good The Meditations of Marcus Aurelius AD 121 180 is a private notebook of philosophical reflections written by a Roman emperor probably on military campaign in Germany In short highly charged comments Marcus draws on Stoic philosophy to confront challenges that he felt acutely but which are also shared by all human beings the looming presence of death making sense of one s social role and projects the moral significance of the universe They bring us closer to the personality of the emperor who is often disillusioned with his own status and with human activities in general they are both an historical document and a remarkable spiritual diary This translation by Robin Hard brings out the eloquence and universality of Marcus thoughts The introduction and notes by Christopher Gill place the
